REBELS OVERTHROW PANAMA REGIME

Hunt Nicaraguan Slayers Of 8 Marines

PATROL CAUGHT WHILE MENDING NEW PHONE LINE

Two Survivors Seriously Wounded During Long Battle Near Ocotul

Washington—(P)—Colonel Frederic Bradman, commandant of the marines in Nicaragua, today held full authority to cope with the bandits who yesterday killed eight of his men.

Marine headquarters had only brief details of the skirmish, which resulted in the greatest single loss since the American troops have suffered since entering Nicaragua in 1927 to meet the challenge of the rebel leader, Augustino Sandino. It was not until today that a full report would be received prior to the weekly report of Colonel Bradman.

Immediate withdrawal of the marines from Nicaragua was proposed today by Senator King, Democrat, Utah.

In the meantime, Brigadier General Myers, assistant to the commandant, said no orders had been issued to Colonel Bradman, since he was in the field and would know best what action was necessary.

The loss of the eight men brought to 27 the number of marines killed in the four years the forces have policed the country, fourteen having died from wounds received in action.

Managua, Nicaragua—(P)—United States marine detachments combed the hills near Achuera, northern Nicaragua, today seeking the band of insurgents who Wednesday killed eight of a patrol of ten marines in an ambush between Ocotul and Apal. The bodies were mutilated.

The patrol was repairing a newly erected telephone line. The Nicaraguans who were believed to be commanded by Miguel Ortiz, a lieutenant of General Augustino Sandino, the remaining members of the patrol were seriously injured. The dead: Sergeant Arthur M. Palmer, Port Lyons, Colo., and Privates Irving P. Aron, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Lambert Bush, Bay Minette, Ala.; Edward Elliott, Des Moines, Iowa; Joseph Albert Harbaugh, Washington, Pa.; Frank Kosteradski, Buffalo, N. Y.; Richard J. Litz, Indianapolis, and Joseph Arthur McCarthy, Chillicothe, Mo.

The wounded: Frank Austin Jackson, Lawrenceville, Ga., and Mack Hutcherson, Shreveport, La.

An account of the ambush given by United States marine headquarters here today said that at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday a marine patrol which was repairing a telephone line was suddenly fired upon from all sides, and that one marine working at the top of a pole was killed in the first volley.

The other immediately put up a defense, which lasted for two and one-half hours, Sergeant Palmer, commanding the patrol, ordered Private Hutcherson to attempt to reach Ocotul and bring help, but in trying to get through the ring of attackers he was wounded and incapacitated.

The insurgent fire was infrequent but accurate, the marines being gradually picked off. Private Jackson was the last man standing; he was wounded and crawled into a nearby field to hide from the Nicaraguans. The eight dead when found later were badly mutilated apparently by machetes.

Farmer Gives Warning

A Nicaraguan farmer living near by heard the firing and rode to Ocotul and gave the alarm at about noon. Joseph J. Tavernier with 25 men immediately rushed to the scene. He found only the killed and the wounded who were moved immediately to Ocotul and from there, by airplane Thursday, to Managua.

Retaliatory measures were immediately put into effect. The marine aviation squadron was unusually active all New Year's day, bombing patrols making extended but unsuccessful efforts to locate the insurgents.

Legge Denies Board Tried To Depress Price Of Wheat

Calls Statements by Oklahoma City Farm Leader "Absolutely Untrue"

Washington—(P)—Chairman Legge of the farm board, today declared "absolutely untrue" statements concerning him made recently by John A. Simpson, president of the Farmers Education and Cooperative Union of Oklahoma City.

Legge made public his reply, dated Dec. 31, to a letter from Simpson, who recently charged the farm chairman had told the senate agriculture committee his board had sought to depress wheat prices.

"I am in receipt of your letter of Dec. 24 and can see no good," wrote Legge, "resulting to the farmers from a further exchange of personalities between us. It would be highly improper for me to enter into any discussion of what was said in an executive session of a senate committee, but I do want to repeat most emphatically that the statements you have been using as having been made by me at this hearing are absolutely untrue.

"Entirely aside from anything which happened at this meeting, isn't it rather absurd to accuse us of trying to depress the price of wheat at a time when the domestic markets are 25 to 35 cents a bushel, depending on where the wheat might be located, above what it would bring if exported today, the Liverpool price averaging at present approximately 20 cents a bushel under the Chicago figure for the same grade of wheat? Don't you realize that in taking this position you are allying yourself with the interests which are so bitterly opposing all efforts to aid agriculture in an effective way?

"So far as I know no resolution has been introduced in congress asking for an investigation of the farm board, but have been informed that the private traders in grain and cotton have been trying to have such a resolution introduced. Do you wish to place yourself in the position of supporting their activities? So far as the board is concerned we have nothing to conceal and have always tried to furnish to the various committees of congress such information as they have asked for.

AUTO CRASHES TAKE 12 LIVES IN TWO STATES

Three Killed in Iowa—Nine Die in New Year Tragedy in Illinois

Sac City, Iowa—(P)—Three persons were killed and another injured seriously when two automobiles collided near here today.

The dead are Lee Gates, Sac City, and a Mr. and Mrs. Doss of Rockwell City, Iowa.

A daughter of the Dosses who was riding with them, was taken to a hospital at Carroll, Iowa, her condition was said to be critical. Gates and Doss were killed almost instantly and Mrs. Doss died while being taken to a hospital.

Gates was driving one car, and Doss the other. The two met head-on at a highway corner.

Chicago—(P)—Nine of ten persons out for a New Year's day automobile ride were killed in grade crossing tragedy in suburban Harvey last night. Their car was struck by the International Limited fast east-bound grand trunk passenger train, and was carried for more than 200 feet down the right of way.

A three months old baby girl, Lorraine Margaret Olson, was the only survivor. She was found by rescuers in a snow-filled ditch, crying, but without a scratch on her body. Investigators expressed belief she had been tossed out of the automobile by her mother before the locomotive struck.

Lorraine's parents, and Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Olson, of Elmhurst, Ill., and their children, Calvin, 6, Muriel, 5, and Vilborg, 4, were killed. The other victims were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nowak of Chicago and their children, Lorraine, 5, and Adam, 7.

The engineer said he did not see the automobile approach. It landed upside down in a ditch. The theory was advanced that Olson, believed to have been driving, did not see the train because of the crowded condition of his small car.

The accident caused an hour's delay in the train's journey to Montreal.

The Olsons left their home in Elmhurst at 1 o'clock p. m., for a drive to Indiana, according to neighbors. They spent the supper hour with Mr. and Mrs. Steven Houly, a brother-in-law of Nowak, in Dixmoor, a Chicago suburb. The accident occurred at 7:30 p. m.

SHOOTS CANARY FOR CHEERY GREETING ON NEW YEAR MORNING

Milwaukee—(P)—About the time his canary awakened, Edward Greska, 26, tumbled into bed after a night of New Year celebration. Edward went to sleep. "Peep, peep," the canary greeted 1931.

Edward turned in bed. He sat up and glared at the bird. "Peep yourself," he snorted, "and furthermore, shut up." "Peep, peep, and a couple of twits," reported the canary. "Listen, you, I mean that." "Tweet," said the bird in an "oh, yeah" tone.

Edward grabbed a revolver from the dresser and bang-d at the cage. Yellow feathers flew. Likewise did the neighbors, aroused from sleep. Edward today was in jail to face a disorderly conduct charge.

IDENTIFY NEGRO WHO ABDUCTED ST. LOUIS BOY

Father of Kidnaper Returns Orphan Child to His Parents

St. Louis—(P)—Charles Y. Abernathy, 23-year-old Negro and son of Pearl Abernathy, Negro real estate dealer here, was the kidnaper of Adolphus Busch Orthenweil, 13-year-old grandson of August A. Busch, president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., and great-grandson of Adolphus Busch, late millionaire brewer, Harry "Bull" attorney for the family, disclosed today.

While Troil would not make a definite statement, this was learned from him after police and special investigators said they had determined Charles Abernathy was the abductor. The senior Abernathy brought about the restoration of the boy to his parents yesterday afternoon after he had been kidnapped from the family chauffeur New Year's eve and held for 26 hours. Police have taken no action against young Abernathy.

Troil said that yesterday afternoon Pearl Abernathy (telephoned Percy J. Orthenweil, the boy's father, told him the boy was safe and said "as father to father, I want to return your boy."

The attorney said no ransom money was paid for the return of young Orthenweil and let it be understood the price for the release of the boy was a promise not to prosecute Charles Abernathy. The son of the Negro real estate dealer today was reported in hiding.

Adolphus was kidnapped New Year's eve from the edge of his new estate in exclusive Sunlight Village, St. Louis. The Negro stopped the Orthenweil sedan, robbed Roy Yowell, chauffeur, of $5, and then drove away in the car with the boy.

Troil said it was his opinion and the opinion of members of the Busch family that kidnapping was not the motive and that the abduction was "incidental to the holdup."

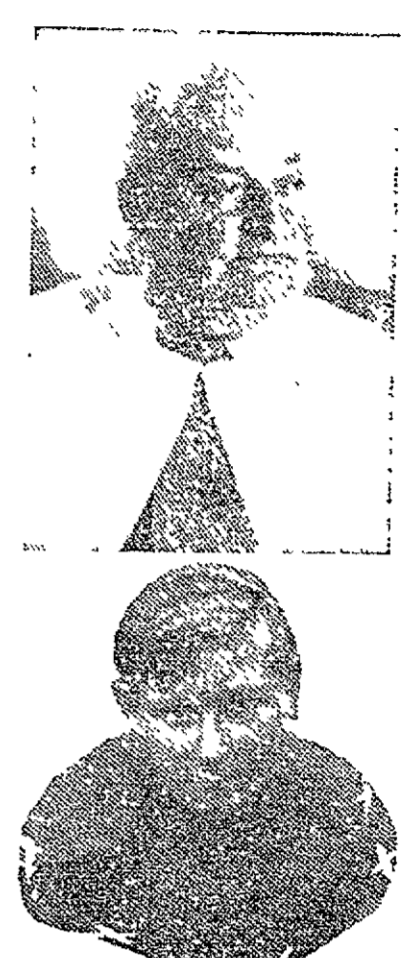

The senior Abernathy was arrested by St. Louis police shortly after noon today for questioning.

The police said Abernathy admitted his son was the kidnaper, but refused to divulge any details obtained from the Negro real estate dealer.

Prior to the senior Abernathy's arrest, Troil said that while he had no direct information Abernathy's son was the abductor, he "gathered as much from what he (the senior Abernathy) said yesterday when he met Mr. Orthenweil and me."

It was reported the younger Abernathy's family, which resides in Webster Groves, a St. Louis suburb, is in destitute circumstances. At the Orthenweil home yesterday Troil said it was found the kidnaper was driven to his crime by extreme want. It was possible the Busch family would find employment for him.

In Extortion Plot

The inquest into the death of George Poppe, (below), 15-year old Clintonville boy shot by a posse, indicates that the possemen were looking for a band of desperate criminals and had no idea that the plot to extort $10,000 from Dr. W. J. Finney, Clintonville (above) was connected by boys.

REVOLT LEADER NAMED PREMIER BY PRESIDENT

Chief Executive Then Quits Office, Leaving Insurgents in Control

U. S. REPORTER SLAIN

Ten Others Dead, Score Wounded—American Intervention Not Likely

Washington—(P)—State department officials said today that American intervention in Panama as a result of the revolt was unlikely.

American intervention in cases of disturbance of public order is permitted under the Panama-American treaty of 1903.

This treaty was made expressly to protect American interests in the Panama Canal Zone, controlled by the United States.

The attitude at the state department was that in the event public order were not unduly disturbed, intervention would not be required.

Minister Alfaro of Panama, hurried to the state department early today seeking further information concerning the disorders in his country. He was escorted with Francis White, assistant secretary of state in charge of Latin-American affairs, for more than an hour.

Panama City—(P)—President Arosemena, overthrown in a sudden revolt this morning, this afternoon named Harmodio Arias premier of Panama, then resigned as president, leaving Arias at liberty to form a new cabinet.

This arrangement was reached in a conference between the president and the revolutionary leaders. It leaves Arias and his party in full charge of the government.

Premier Daniel Bollen also resigned, but the status of Vice President Tomas Gabriel Duque was not immediately ascertained.

The revolutionists captured police headquarters and established their own patrol of civilian guards. Another attack was directed against the palace which surrendered after a brief skirmish.

At least ten persons were killed and a score or so wounded in the fighting about the palace and the police station. Hartwell P. Ayers, an American newspaper correspondent, died at Gorgas hospital after being wounded in the struggle.

Confess With Davis

While political leaders and representatives of Spain, Italy, Cuba and Costa Rica conferred with Roy T. Davis, the United States minister, reports came from Colon that the governor of that province had dispatched 500 Colon police to support the Arosemena government but that the Panama railway refused to carry the armed body.

The Colon governor minimized the importance of the revolt, attributing it to a comparatively small group of malcontents headed by Dr. Harmodio Arias, head of the junta government. He asserted that all the nine provinces of the republic were loyal to Arosemena.

United States troops were guarding the legation and patrolling the border but after the first flurry of fighting there was little disorder.

The rebellion was sponsored by the "Accion Comunal," a patriotic organization which has violently criticized what it called the "corruption" of the government under both Presidents Chari and Arosemena.

Associated with Arias were Francisco Arias Paredes, a capitalist, and J. J. Vallarino, physician and X-ray specialist.

This morning a group of about 100 men stormed headquarters of the national police, which also serve as Panama's only standing army, and after firing a few bursts of shot captured the police station.

Simultaneously an attack was made upon the presidential palace, which also fell. President Arosemena was confined to his quarters in the palace, presumably under arrest.

Arrest Other Officials

Several other government officers were placed under arrest, including Archibaldo Bord, governor of the province of Panama, and Ricardo Arango, head of the police.

After the first attacks had succeeded armed civilians associated with the revolutionists patrolled the city under the direction of General Manuel Quintana, who had installed himself at the police station.

Shops remained closed, there was no bus service and throughout the city automobiles carrying armed men dashed about posting guards on police duty.

BARBECUE STAND OWNER IS SLAIN

La Crosse Man Shot, Woman Wounded, as Latter Refuses "Date"

La Crosse—(P)—Malcolm Hiles, proprietor of a barbecue stand, was fatally shot today and Mrs. Cleo Hammond, a waitress, was wounded when Hiles remonstrated with a man who demanded that the woman accompany him on a party.

Authorities were searching for George Dunich, operator of a shoe repair shop, who allegedly shot Hiles and wounded the woman in the leg, when he came upon them in a dance hall at the rear of the barbecue stand. Hiles died at a hospital several hours later.

From her bed in a hospital, Mrs. Hammond told police the identity of her assailant. Her statement was corroborated by that of the woman's brother, the only other occupant of the dance hall when the man entered.

Mrs. Hammond said she had refused Dunich "dates" on several occasions and had asked Hiles, her employer, for protection in the event he approached her again. She said Dunich entered the dance hall and menaced her with the gun, demanding she accompany him. When Hiles stepped forward to interfere he was wounded three times and another bullet struck her in the foot.

BANK CLOSED; Probe Story Of Kidnaping

Chicago—(P)—Federal examiners closed the doors of the Lawrence-ave National bank today pending an investigation of the alleged robbery and kidnapping of an assistant cashier.

Bank officials, attempting to open the vault today, found the bandits had swung the steel doors shut and set the time lock for its maximum run of 72 hours, rendering an examination impossible until Sunday afternoon.

The robbery was reported by John E. Malloy, assistant cashier, who said he was held prisoner five hours in the bank yesterday and finally kidnapped in his own car and taken to Milwaukee by four men. The quartet had posed as bank examiners, he said, in asking him to meet them at the bank on New Year's day.

Malloy, reporting to Milwaukee police after his release there, said the vault was timed to open at 2 o'clock p. m. yesterday.

Police were posted at the bank this morning to prevent trouble from worried depositors who gathered at the door.

Malloy told detectives today the robbers took about $12,000, all the cash that was in the safe, and looted the safe deposit boxes of bonds, cash and jewelry.

The directors met New Year's eve. Malloy said, considering a proposed merger with another bank. When the men called him by telephone he therefore thought the bank examiners were to aid in completing the merger details, he said.

75 ALCOHOLIC VICTIMS

New York—(P)—Seventy-five persons were being treated for alcoholism today as the result of the New Year's festivities. Although no deaths were attributed direct to poison liquor, many of those in hospitals were acute cases and their outcome was doubtful. Last year three deaths and 79 hospital cases of alcoholism were recorded.

COBBLER CONSULTS UNION TO PREDICT THREE COLD MONTHS

Marshfield—(P)—There's going to be weather—lots of it—in 1931, if one is to believe Erval E. Nesch, local cobbler, who reputedly knows "his onions."

Annually, 30 minutes before the end of the old year, the cobbler goes to the basement of his shop and stays until 30 minutes after the New Year. He takes an onion with him and performs mystic rites. Then he announces the weather forecast for the ensuing year. He cuts the onion, he says, and examines closely the condition of its skins. Thus he forecasts.

His prediction for 1931: January, dry, some snow, extremely cold; February, dry, cold; March, extremely cold and lots of snow; April, wet, May, extremely wet; June, medium; July, mostly dry; August, medium; September, October, November and December, wet.

2 DEAD AT MADISON

Madison—(P)—Two persons, one a bride of a few weeks, were dead here today, the result of automobile crashes.

Mrs. R. H. Bartz, 38, wealthy widow of Charles T. Bieder, who six weeks ago married Bartz, property man for the University of Wisconsin Athletic department, was killed and her husband injured when their car struck a safety island on the corner of the capitol yesterday.

Casper Cronin, 37, was killed and his companions, Melvin Johnson and Russell Brown, were injured when their automobile smashed from the road east of here.

ORDER INQUEST INTO HIGHWAY ACCIDENT

Monroe, Wis.—(P)—An inquest into the death of Oscar D. Leicht, 20, farm worker who was struck and killed Wednesday night by an automobile near Monticello, will be held here tomorrow. The automobile was driven by Donald Wenger, 19, son of a Monroe banker, a college student who was home for the holidays.

Wenger was accompanied by Arthur C. Benkert, University of Wisconsin student. The two youths took Leicht to a physician and told authorities the glare of oncoming headlights blinded them.

MARRIED 68 YEARS

Aurora, Ill.—(P)—Charles H. Vosburgh, 59, who just recently gave up bicycle riding as an exercise, and Mrs. Vosburgh, 87, celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary on New Year's day. Their formula for wedded bliss and longevity was: Moderation in eating, drinking and "in their opinions."

STUDENT GROUP FOR DRY LAW MODIFICATION

Atlanta—(P)—The National Students Federation of America, by majority vote favors modification of the prohibition law.

Balloting yesterday at the sixth annual congress on the basis of one vote for each college or university represented gave 66 votes for modification, 23 for repeal and 23 for enforcement.

By a vote of 57 to 16, the students said drinking is increasing in their colleges.

HOPE FOR AGREEMENT IN SOUTH WALES FIELD

London—(P)—Optimistic expectations prevailed here today that differences between miners and mine operators in South Wales would be ironed out tomorrow in a meeting of the conciliation board.

It was hoped that at least a temporary arrangement would be made which would permit 150,000 miners who walked out in protest at reduction of their working hours and lessening of their wages to return to work.

Neither the miners nor the mine operators have shown the slightest sign of weakening in their demands and the grounds upon which such a possible agreement may be made are regarded as purely speculative.

Parties List Expenditures In Past Year

Washington—(P)—Expenditures of $612,647 for 1930 were reported to the clerk of the house today by the Democratic committee.

The Republican congressional campaign committee reported it has spent $264,995, while the Republican senatorial committee said its disbursements totaled $50,203.

The Democratic national committee closed the year with a deficit of $636,225, of which $225,250 was owed to John J. Raskob, committee chairman.

The Democratic committee also owed $403,365 to the County Trust company of New York, $4,104 to the Postal Telegraph company of New York and $3,500 to Frank Klerman of New York.

Raskob, in the year, loaned $180,000 to the committee, the last installment of $10,000 being made on Dec. 15. Among the contributors were Robert E. Greenwood of Pittsburgh, Mass., who gave $10,000; Bernard M. Baruch, Jr., whose donation was $1,000, and John W. Davis, a former Democratic presidential candidate, who gave $500.

The Republican congressional committee received $240,482, also ending the year with a deficit, while the disbursements of the Republican senatorial committee were exactly the same as receipts, $50,203.

The Republican senatorial committee made the following expenditures in 1930: To Senator McNary, Oregon, $2,500; J. A. Hanlon, Montana, $10,000; Representative Dickson, Iowa, $5,000; Senator McMahon, South Dakota, $2,500; A. H. Hahn, Denver, $10,000; Representative Fritchard, North Carolina, $2,000; George N. Brimmer, Cheyenne, Wyo., $7,500; Herbert B. Holt, Las Cruces, New Mexico, $2,500.

Italy Planning No Strife, Duce Says In Radio Speech

Rome—(P)—Benito Mussolini, Italian premier, spoke for 15 minutes into a microphone here last evening in English. To an audience of millions of Americans.

Il Duce, who is reported not to have known a word of English at the time of his rising to power eight years ago, used the occasion of the first Englishman international broadcast to wish America a happy New Year. He explained some of the tenets of Italy's fascist regime and to declare that Italy never would start a war.

He pointed out that he himself had fought in the ranks and was "wounded" and asked for sympathy with the captives as a man of war. He could consider a future conflict a just horror.

He was emphatic in his assertion that neither he nor his people desired another conflict of arms. He declared that Italy's only interest was in making Italy a strong military power, he described as simply to make them strong, efficient and disciplined.

"We cannot conceive of modern Italy without the United States," he said. "Had they not brought

MEXICAN LIBERATED IN "HONOR" KILLING

Mexico City—(P)—Jesus Dallaserin, prominent Mexico City merchant, was released from custody today under the first application of the new Mexican penal code which legitimizes killing in defense of honor.

Dallaserin returned to his home recently and found there Francisco Montes Corona and Senora de Dallaserin. There was a fight and Montes Corona stumbled from the house, mortally wounded by a machete.

After investigation of the facts the minister of justice ordered Dallaserin's release.

The new penal code became effective just a year ago. It provided considerable discussion at the time because of such advanced provisions contained in it as the unwritten law and making it no offense for a desperately hungry man to rob and a mutilation of juries.

527 STRIKES IN YEAR

Madrid—(P)—Labor records show that 527 strikes occurred in Spain during 1930. In the previous year there were only 160. Political unrest was involved in more than two-thirds of the strikes, many of which were accompanied by violent disorders.

MILWAUKEE WOMAN IS NEAR DEATH FROM SHOT

Milwaukee—(P)—Mrs. Mary Nixdorf, 55, wife of a well known hotel operator, Edward T. Nixdorf, today was confined to a hospital from what her husband said was a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Mrs. Nixdorf was found on the floor in the Nixdorf restaurant yesterday. A gun was found in the kitchen. Detectives said apparently she shot herself in that room, threw the gun away, and staggered to the dining room where she was discovered. Financial worries were blamed by the husband for his wife's action.

GUARD VICEROY FROM ATTACK DURING TRIP

Calcutta, Bengal—(P)—Extreme precautions were taken today to prevent any harm befalling Viceroy Lord Irwin and Lady Irwin when they drove in state to the Bowrah railway station to take a train for Assam. Owners of houses along the route were made responsible by police for seeing that no strangers or servants were given access to windows or balconies overlooking the street until the procession passed.

London Amazed At Girl's Attempt To Hop To China

London—(P)—General astonishment has been aroused in Great Britain by departure of Miss Amy Johnson, 28-year-old aviator, on a long lone flight across snow-covered northern Eurasia to Peking, China.

Leaving Hendon airfield yesterday forenoon, she stopped at Lymington momentarily and proceeded to Liege, Belgium, for the night. She expects to continue to Berlin, then to Moscow, where equipping her plane with skills she will fly across Siberia and Mongolia to Peking.

In addition to general fear for her safety in view of the extreme hazards of such a journey her friends were represented today as feeling considerable anxiety on account of her health.

The Daily Express said she was in ill health and had become a neurotic from the strain of her flight to Australia. The paper quoted an Australian friend, George Campkin, as saying that she had never recovered

Congress Group To Survey Unemployment And Relief Problems

WOODS, PAYNE AMONG LEADERS TO LIST NEEDS

Appropriations to Committee Will Begin Investigation Next Tuesday

Washington (P)—A congressional survey of unemployment and relief problems confronting the nation will begin next Tuesday by the senate appropriations committee.

Colonel Arthur Woods, chairman of President Hoover's emergency committee for employment, and John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, will head the list of those to be questioned.

Upon their testimony is expected to hinge the decision of attempting any further relief steps. Senators J. A. Rollette, Republican, Wisconsin, and Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, are urging a direct appropriation of $100,000,000 to defray relief expenses of the states.

A resolution by Senator Le Follette was responsible for the new survey. President Hoover's emergency relief program has been enacted by congress and no additional legislation is now contemplated by administration leaders beyond the $45,000,000 appropriation for drought-stricken farmers which was authorized in the session. However, the appropriations committee has been asked by the senate to inquire of Colonel Woods:

1. Any information in his possession relating to extent of unemployment.

2. Measures for relief of distress caused by unemployment in the various cities.

3. His recommendations concerning the extent to which public works must be expanded if a substantial reduction in unemployment during this year is to be brought about.

The senate asked the committee to ascertain from Judge Payne:

1. The extent of the drought-stricken states.

2. Whether the American Red Cross can provide adequate relief to all needy persons.

3. Conditions in the cities and towns of the country caused by the economic depression and resultant unemployment.

PUBLISH DETAILS ON MEXICAN ROADS

Plans to Put National Railways on Paying Basis Are Revealed

Mexico City (P)—Recommendations of the special committee which considered the Montes de Oca-Laumont debt settlement for the reorganization of the Mexican National railways to put them on a paying basis were published today.

They include elimination of many departments, centralization of shops, round houses and divisional points, establishment of statistical and economic departments, strict observance of budgets, improvement and standardization of equipment, elimination of parallel lines and reorganization of all lines under the laws of Mexico.

The reorganization plan is necessary under the terms of the agreement signed in New York last July.

The reorganization plan committee was composed of general Plutarco Calles, Finance Minister Montes de Oca and Javier Sanchez Mejorado, president of the national railways.

The project for reorganization lists specifications for the administrative department and substitution of the divisional system for a departmental system.

Recommendation is made for construction of new lines when financially possible. These include lines from Santa Lucrécia, state of Vera Cruz, to Toluca; Campeche, Yucatan, to Quintana Roo, the east coast of Mexico which is not now interconnected or connected by rail with the rest of the country and also new lines from Tampico to Mexico City over the short route and from Mazatlan to Durango.

The plan likewise recommends establishment of bus lines where feasible and improvement of the rolling stock.

The board of directors in Mexico would be reduced and the board of directors in New York eliminated.

On Old Job

The new year 1931 brings no changes to John L. Lewis, shown here, veteran president of the United Mine Workers of America. It just brings him one more year on his old job—a job to which he was unanimously re-elected a short time ago.

DANCE HALL OWNERS TO BE TOLD ABOUT NEW REGULATIONS

Meeting Will Be Held by License Committee Monday Afternoon

Plans are being made by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, for the meeting next Monday afternoon, at the courthouse of all dance hall and roadhouse owners. The meeting was called by the newly created dance license committee. Members of the committee are: Supervisors Joseph Sandhofer, James Kennedy and John Knapstein. Sheriff John Lappen and District Attorney Stanley A. Stahl are ex officio members of the committee.

At the meeting Monday the committee will discuss with the dance hall men the new dance hall and roadhouse regulation ordinance which was adopted by the county board at its meeting in November.

The policy of the committee in enforcing the ordinance will be discussed and applications for licenses will be made by the owners.

The committee plans to grant all licenses but it announced that enforcement of the ordinance would be stringent and licenses would be revoked if there is violation of any section of the law. The ordinance will go into effect Jan. 10.

Among its provisions are: Licensing of each road house and dance hall at $25 per year; provisions for regular conduct of public dances; provision for stationing a deputy sheriff or dance inspector at every public dance, to be paid $5 per night by the proprietors; closing of all dance halls and roadhouses at 12:30 a. m.

VARIETY PROGRAM AT "Y" OPEN HOUSE

More Than 400 Attend Annual Event; Marionette Show Features

More than 400 persons attended the annual open house program at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday afternoon. A program of musical numbers, swimming and gymnastic stunts and two basketball games furnished entertainment.

The musical program was presented in the association lobby by Tom Temple's band. In the gymnasium members of the various boys department classes went through exercises they have been learning for the last two months and there were two basketball games. C. D. Jones to the Y. M. C. A. Bears, 25 and 9, while the Delta Epsilon team beat the Triangles, 79 and 15. The first two teams are members of the Industrial league, the second two of the Older Boy league.

Swimming exhibitions in the pool also attracted many people, as did a marionette show staged in one of the assembly rooms of the building. The swimming exhibition featured local talent and the marionette show was staged by several Appleton boys.

The plan likewise recommends establishment of bus lines where feasible and improvement of the rolling stock.

The board of directors in Mexico would be reduced and the board of directors in New York eliminated.

QUANTITY, VALUE OF BUTTER SHOWS DECREASE IN 1929

1,518,894,881 Pounds of Butter Whey and Oil Produced, Report Says

(Post-Crescent Wash. Bureau)

Washington—Both quantity and value of butter, such an important Wisconsin product, produced in the country as a whole in 1929 showed decreases from the 1927 records, according to statistics gathered by the 1930 Census of Manufacturers and made public (Wednesday) by the Bureau of the Census.

In 1929, 1,518,894,881 pounds of butter, when butter and oil valued at $664,445,577 were produced compared with 1,564,673,318 pounds valued at $695,863,529 reported for 1927, the last preceding census year.

This is a decrease of 2.9 per cent in quantity and 4.5 per cent in value.

Of the total 1929 value, $651,830,297 was for establishments primarily engaged in the production of butter and $12,555,336 for establishments in other industries that manufacture butter as a side or secondary product.

The 1929 totals were made up of 1,516,607,079 pounds of creamery butter worth $652,444,754; 1,622,155 pounds of whey butter worth $490,297; and 695,647 pounds of butter oil worth $310,524. This is a decrease of 2.9 per cent in quantity, 4.5 per cent in value of the creamery butter; an increase of 6 per cent in quantity but decrease of 11.2 per cent in value of whey butter; and increases of 38.7 per cent and 30.1 per cent in quantity and value, respectively, of butter oil.

Decreases were registered in almost all departments of the industry, which for the purpose of the census does not include the farm production of butter—an agricultural operation.

The number of establishments decreased from 3,519 in 1927 to 3,499 in 1929, a loss of 3.1 per cent. Wages decreased by 10 per cent from $25,329,536 in 1927 to $22,470,157 in 1929, while the average number of wage earners, not including salaried employees and officials sank from 20,086 in 1927 to 17,305 in 1929, a drop of 11.4 per cent.

The cost of materials, such as containers for products, fuel and purchased electric current decreased, while the value added by manufacture increased from $101,674,191 in 1927 to $104,902,071 in 1929.

POSTAL RECEIPTS LESS IN DECEMBER

Receipts at the Appleton post office for December were $21,280.17, a decrease of $1,764.12 under December, 1929. Receipts in 1929 were $22,694.29. The decrease, postal officials said, was somewhat less than anticipated because the Christmas buying of stamps started slower than usual. Heavy business the last few days before Christmas cut the decrease considerably. Receipts for December were as follows: stamps, $20,163.46; excess of stamp sale, $1.81; second class postage, $359.78; permit matter, $876.06; miscellaneous receipts, $238.41; box rent, $1.85.

SEEK SLAYER OF GIRL; JEALOUSY MAY BE MOTIVE

Washington Police Hold Brother, Two Others in Mystery

Washington (P)—Why pretty Beulah Limerick was shot to death and by whom, still baffled Washington police today, two days after an undertaker accidentally discovered a hidden bullet hole at the back of her head.

The authorities had turned loose a score of persons questioned since the girl was found dead Wednesday, but they held her brother, Vernon Limerick, Richard Reed, who lived at their house, and Edward Paddy, who had been her escort at a dance Tuesday night.

A "jealous suitor" perhaps killed her, police thought, and they scanned the long list of her intimate friends for clues. They studied, too, a diary the 19-year-old girl had kept. It contained, they said, many frank references to a number of her boy friends.

The story of the three men, as police told it, was that Paddy brought the girl home from the dance about 1:30 Wednesday morning. Vernon Limerick came down from his third floor room and talked with them awhile. Reed was asleep then but rose about a quarter to five, went down as was his custom to light a fire in Beulah's room. She lay on her side. The covers were over her head, he said, and he did not disturb her. Soon he left for his work at a filling station.

Vernon took up the story. His alarm clock went off at 8:30. He called to his sister and receiving no answer went down to her room. She was flat on her back, the covers drawn back to her waist. He could not rouse her, went to his mother's apartment some distance off for aid.

About 10 o'clock he called a hospital. An interne came and noticing blood flecks at the girl's mouth, pronounced her dead from hemorrhage. A routine death certificate was issued. Late that evening the undertaker discovered the bullet hole. Police found four revolvers in the home or premises frequented by the Limericks but none would fit the bullet found in her head.

Medical Expert from State Will Discuss Contagious Abortion

Six meetings have been definitely arranged and three more meetings have been tentatively arranged by Gus Sell, county agent, throughout the county next week at which contagious abortion and its prevention will be discussed. This series of meetings will augment a first series of gatherings which were held throughout the county recently on the same subject.

These meetings will open the activities of the farm department in 1931. The prevention and control of contagious abortion is one of the major projects of the department for the coming year and every effort will be made by Mr. Sell to have as many farmers attend these meetings as possible.

Dr. V. S. Larson, an expert with the state department of agriculture, will be the speaker at these meetings. He will discuss the findings of the department in its investigation of the disease and he will also answer all questions of the farmers who attend the meeting.

Meetings which have been definitely arranged include: Monday afternoon, Outagamie Rural Normal school at Kaukauna, Monday evening, at the school house in Freedom; Wednesday afternoon, at the town hall, town of Maple Creek; Wednesday evening, at the high school in Shiocton; Thursday afternoon, town hall, town of Liberty; and Thursday evening, at the hall at Five Corners.

Tentative meetings are scheduled for Tuesday afternoon at Cicero and Tuesday evening at Seymour; and Friday afternoon at the courthouse in Appleton.

State Legislature Convened At Madison On Wednesday, Jan. 14

SENATE POWER APPEARS TO BE EVENLY DIVIDED

Progressives Expected to Hold Control in Lower House

BY EDWARD J. ALLEN
Madison — (AP) — A legislative program vitally affecting every person in Wisconsin will be undertaken when members of the 1931 legislature convene in the state capitol on Jan. 14.

For several weeks senators and assemblymen have indicated, in statements to the press, the type of legislation they will seek during the session. Matters relating to virtually everything from chain banking to the repeal of "blue laws" will occupy their attention.

During the first week the legislators will be confronted with the task of organizing the senate and assembly. In the lower house progressives and apparently will have control in the senate. Matters relating to virtually everything from chain banking to the repeal of "blue laws" will occupy their attention.

The speakership of the assembly will go to either Charles B. Perry, Wausau, or E. M. Rowlands, Cambria, in the opinion of political observers. Assemblyman Perry's long son with the progressives in the last session makes him one of the outstanding candidates for the speakership, but the sentiment which favors Assemblyman Rowlands comes from those who desire the selection of an old time progressive rather than one who was so recently affiliated with the conservative faction.

Herman J. Severson, Iola, and Walter H. Hunt, River Falls, will probably be the progressive choice for president pro tempore of the senate, but conservative, who last year may have been in the upper house, may again seize the post for themselves. To many observers, Hunt may get the job because of the opposition to Sen. Severson's leadership, in dry legislation.

Public utilities, reapportionment, chain banking, unemployment, income tax, gasoline tax, corrupt practices, act, inheritance tax, insurance and education promise to be the subjects for the major bills during the session.

A recent tentative report by the interim committee on education revealed that the entire administrative structure in Wisconsin's educational system will be swept away and for it substituted a state board of education.

Under the committee's plans, the position of superintendent of public instruction would be abolished along with all of the approximately 30 boards and commissions now charged with various phases of education.

To carry out campaign pledges made by Gov. Philip LaFollette, progressives must win the fight for revision of the Zimmerman income tax bill which was enacted during the 1927 session. Because Gov. Walter Kohler, vetoed the bill during the last session, Gov. LaFollette's predecessor was in part responsible for the present income tax measure. Removal of the burden of taxation from general property, farms, real estate and the small salaried man to large incomes will be the objective of progressives.

A bill to prevent the distress occasioned by unemployment will be introduced by Prof. Harold Groves in the assembly for the progressives. That Groves' proposed bill will seek unemployment insurance as a means to solve the problem. Several similar bills are expected to be introduced during the session because of the widespread unemployment and its attendant political discussions during the past year.

A vigorous attempt at re-enactment of the state inheritance law, repealed by the Schmies law in the last session, is predicted. Conservatives are expected to fight on matters against any change. As regards a gasoline tax, numerous bills, all seeking increases, will probably be introduced. Gov. LaFollette has announced that he favors an increase in the gasoline tax. Assemblyman William A. Meyer, Oshkosh, has announced he will seek a three-cent tax but would oppose any attempt to go beyond this amount to present tax. Meyer has brought approximately $8,700,000 to the state in 1930. An additional tax of one cent is expected to yield $4,000,000 more revenue annually.

That Gov. LaFollette will insist on passage of some measure that will give the state more control of public utilities is almost a certainty. During the campaign the governor urged that the people meet the electric power issue in order to counter the influence of the "power trust." Public competition in the generation and distribution of electric power was urged by the governor while a candidates as the only means by which the public can be protected from exorbitant rates.

By reorganization of the railroad commission—action which Gov. LaFollette has promised—the new executive hopes to maintain a closer watch of railroads.

May Seek Revision
Failure of progressives, led by LaFollette, to oust Gov. Kohler from office under the provisions of the corrupt practices act limiting campaign expenditures to $4,000, will undoubtedly prompt Gov. LaFollette to ask revision at this session. The interim committee on campaign expenditures has announced that recommendations for strengthening the act will be made to the legislature.

By virtue of his campaign pledge, Gov. LaFollette will also be obliged to either use existing laws or produce new legislation for curbing or abolishing chain banking as it exists in Wisconsin. What the legislature will do with a fishing license bill this session remains a conjecture. A bill providing for a resident license found its way through both houses during the last session.

Lawrence Students Fall Through Ice In Green Bay

Two Lawrence college students and a Green Bay youth received an unexpected and cold bath about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when the small automobile in which they were riding broke through three inches of ice on Green Bay and dropped into five feet of water.

They were Harold Stecker, Minneapolis, Minn., and Robert Phenecie, Green Bay, Lawrence students, and Donald De Bruy, who is employed at Green Bay. They were taking a short-cut across the ice to the Stecker cottage at Edgewater Beach on the other side of the Bay. Stecker was driving the machine.

Phenecie opened the door of the car and jumped before the machine sank. He half scrambled and half swam to firmer ice and then ran for shore to secure a large log which he pushed to the other youths who were struggling in the icy water.

The youth hurried to a fisherman's shanty nearby where they dried their clothing. A wrecking truck worked for several hours to drag the machine from the water. The accident occurred about 200 feet off the south shore of the Bay.

According to stories told by the youths, the water at the point where the car broke through was only five feet deep, the machine having settled on the only sand bar within seventy hundred yards. The water off the sand bar is approximately 12 feet deep.

MOVE NEW TRIAL IN STEEL MERGER CASE

Youngstown, Ohio — (AP) — A motion for a new trial was filed in common pleas court today by counsel for Bethlehem Steel corporation and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, whose merger was enjoined Monday by Judge David G. Jenkins.

The action followed a five hour conference held Wednesday in New York by Eugene G. Grace, Bethlehem president; James A. Campbell, Youngstown chairman; Frank Purcell, president of Youngstown, and counsel for both companies.

"This is purely a matter of mechanics," said Newton D. Baker, chief of defense counsel.

"There are two ways of carrying a case up: By error, or by appeal. This is the first step in carrying it up by error."

Asked whether the motion was to be taken as an indication that the case would be carried up on error, Mr. Baker said:

"It means nothing. It is simply a mechanical move."

STREET CAR OFF TRACKS, MOTORMAN NEAR DEATH

Pittsburgh — (AP) — A street car, carrying a trailer, jumped the tracks and crashed through the front wall of a three-story brick building in "the strip" early today. The motorman, A. Golon, extricated from the twisted wreckage of the car, was reported in a dying condition in a hospital. Two women and two children, who were asleep on one of the upper floors of the building, also were removed to a hospital. Police reported half a dozen other persons were slightly injured. The car jumped the track at the foot of a steep hill, police said.

to die under Gov. Kohler's veto. Gov. LaFollette has pledged himself to a comprehensive program for all phases of conservation but has not yet given specific opinions on any one phase.

Scores of other bills will come before the legislature and on the basis of present indications, the legislators will have before them a program that may entail eight or nine months of work. Among the proposed bills is one for a minimum wage for state and county highway employees and another for shorter hours for state prison guards.

Another bill would permit the manufacture of rope at the state prison while still another would provide state aid to counties for reforestation. Assemblyman John W. Grob-schmidt, Milwaukee, has promised another attack on the state's obsolete laws while another legislator is determined to provide for a state police system.

A bill calling for reapportionment will be introduced by Assemblyman A. Badione, Marinette. He will also ask for a constitutional change permitting the state to bond itself to the extent of $10,000,000 for the purchase of land and the construction and equipment of buildings at state charitable and penal institutions.

As for prohibition, Wisconsin has little to fear. The wet blue grew considerably in the legislature as a result of the last election and any attempt to re-enact a state prohibition law is likely to meet a quick and ignominious death.

PARADE STREET IN PAJAMAS, SWIMMING SUIT ON $10 DARE

Two Appleton youths, students at the University of Wisconsin, walked down College-ave at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, New Year's day, one clad in an orange colored swimming suit, and the other in a pair of black and orange silk pajamas.

To the passersby it was just another stunt, or perhaps just another pair of New Year's revelers returning from a costume party. But to Wilfred Toek, 1203 N. Drew-st., and Howard Ruth, 808 N. Drew-st., it was a matter of $10.

The events which led up to the somewhat unconventional display were like this: Ruth and Toek had he'd be afraid to show himself on College-ave in a swimming suit. Toek took the dare, and in return he'd be afraid to present himself to public exhibition clad in his new pair of Christmas pajamas. The $20 was presented to a stake holder and the parade went on as scheduled. Both still have their original $10.

NEW U.S. EMBASSY IN BUENOS AIRES STATELY MANSION

Building Takes First Rank as Residence of Diplomatic Chief

Buenos Aires — (AP) — Terminating years of improvising its quarters, the United States embassy to Argentina finally has been installed in an official government-owned home.

Ambassador Robert Woods Bliss and his wife have moved into the $1,250,000 Bosch mansion, bought last year by the United States government as permanent residence for its diplomatic chief here.

The building takes first rank among the residences of foreign envoys in Buenos Aires.

The building and grounds, purchased from one of Argentina's wealthiest families, occupy a square block and face Palermo park.

Avenida Alvear, Buenos Aires' classic suburban boulevard, separates the embassy property from this park, which is ranked among the world's most beautiful.

Of 20th century French design, the new embassy presents a striking front. A large drawing room, ballroom, state dining room and ample living quarters for the ambassador and embassy servants complete the interior plan.

Most of the original furniture, hangings and light fixtures have been retained. Rugs and pictures were the principal concern of Mrs. Bliss in preparing the building for official occupancy.

A formal garden covering about two-thirds of the block is one of the most beautiful in the city. Here Mr. and Mrs. Bliss will have an ideal setting for garden parties, so popular in this capital.

The first function held at the new embassy was a reception to members of the American colony.

UNSETTLED WEATHER TO PREVAIL ON SATURDAY

Unsettled weather will prevail in Appleton and vicinity during the next 24 hours. Residents can expect snow flurries tonight or Saturday night, the weatherman says.

Similar predictions have been made out through-out the state Friday night, and moderate temperatures will prevail.

Winds are shifting in the south and southwest, a good indication that mild weather is on the way. At 6 o'clock Friday morning the mercury registered 14 degrees above zero, while at noon it registered 23 degrees above zero.

Beverly Hills, Calif. — (AP) — The New Year looks like a million dollars to three Beverly Hills youngsters.

The children, William Berry Charles, St. Clarence Jesse Bennett, 8, and Ethel Bennett, 4, began 1931 with inheritances from grandparents of more than $1,000,000 each. The Charles boy is cousin of the Bennett children. The estates were ordered probated today.

KILLS SELF BY LEAP INTO BOILING FLUID

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. — (AP) — Jumping into a boiling vat of tanning fluid at the Northwestern Leather company's plant here, John Eugno, 50, father of four children, was dead today.

His suicide, friends said, was prompted by the loss of his job in the tannery where he had worked 28 years. The body was found yesterday.

PIONEER MINER DIES

Phoenix, Ariz. — (AP) — John Wesley Osborn, 77, pioneer Arizona mining man, is dead, he had been ill for more than a year. He was one of the first to reach Tombstone after reports came from that frontier camp of the rich silver strikes which made Tombstone the silver capital of the world. His interest in mining continued until his death.

BANTAM HEN DYING OF GRIEF BECAUSE MATE IS KILLED

Los Angeles — (AP) — Spurning offers of food, Nancy Tam, a pet bantam hen, is believed to be dying of grief over the death of her mate, Ebony Tam. Ebony was killed because his crowing disturbed his neighborhood.

Nancy, widowed several days ago, refused nourishment today for the third successive day. She has stopped setting on a nest of eggs.

WAR DEBT TO COST TINY GERMAN STATE ABOUT $8 A PERSON

Neu Strelitz, Germany — (AP) — The tiny federal state of Mecklenburg-Strelitz recently has found itself saddled with a debt of approximately $8 for each of its 110,000 citizens.

It is payable to their former rulers of the days when the state was a grand duchy—before the revolution of 1918 emptied thrones and palaces. Mecklenburg-Strelitz is up in arms because a court of arbitration has decided in favor of additional claims of the late grand duke's mother, Grand Duchess Elizabeth, and her daughters.

This amount totals 2,660,000 marks, plus several years' accumulated interest, making a grand total of 3,750,000 marks—or, roughly, $900,000.

One of the daughters, Jutta, wife of ex-Crown Prince Danilo of Montenegro, first brought her claim before a mixed German-Yugoslavian commission in Paris two years ago. She based it on the ground that by her marriage she no longer was German but of Montenegrin nationality, and therefore was entitled to claim extra compensation as the subject of a country that had fought against the central powers in the war.

Her action, which caused resentment in Germany, was lost in that instance, but the German Arbitration court now has reversed the decision.

The Mecklenburg-Strelitz family is reputedly one of the wealthiest in Europe, and the little free state, smaller than Rhode Island, considers the award a financial blow, for its budget shows a chronic deficit.

BURMA REVOLT FORCES ARE BELIEVED CRUSHED

Tharavaddy, Burma — (AP) — Two defeats were believed today to have broken the back of the rebel movement which has harassed this northern Burma area for a week. A large drawing room, ballroom, state dining room and ample living quarters for the ambassador and embassy servants complete the interior plan.

Most of the original furniture, hangings and light fixtures have been retained. Rugs and pictures were the principal concern of Mrs. Bliss in preparing the building for official occupancy.

CONGRESS HAS CHOICE LAME DUCKS JUST NOW

Washington — (AP) — Millions of voters cast their ballots for congressional candidates with the idea that there ought to be a change. No one can guess how many realized that the collective vote of these millions may have no effect on the lineup in Congress until 13 months after election day.

One consolation the casters of the "protest vote" get is that they elect quite a few more of the type of legislators likely to assemble behind the Norris lame duck amendment which would get each newly elected congressman into its seats within a couple of months.

Meanwhile the House and Senate will have two of the choicest collections of lame ducks you ever saw in the short session of the Seventy-first Congress which begins Dec. 5 and ends on March 4. Except for those chosen to fill vacancies for unexpired terms, the new senators-elect and representatives-elect won't get into action before Dec. 5, 1931. A formal session of the Senate will be held on Dec. 5, 1931, and the House will convene on Dec. 6, 1931.

The season's champion lame duck appears to be Senator Charles S. Deneen of Illinois. Early last April, in the primary which nominated Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican voters of Illinois decided that they had enough of Deneen. But the time elapsing between the re-election of Senator Deneen and the time his successor, James Hamilton Lewis, takes office, is just 20 months, not so far from two years.

A dozen senators who have either retired or been defeated will be on the job in this short session. And four or five times as many members of the House.

Four Republican senators who refused to run for re-nomination and re-election will be with us. Three were succeeded by Democrats. Their retirement unquestionably saved them just so much expense. They're lame ducks, too—Gillett of Massachusetts, Goff of West Virginia and Phelps of Colorado. Gould of Maine, who also retired, probably couldn't have been re-nominated.

Those who were voted into duck-hood during the primary season are

AUTO INJURIES PROVE FATAL TO MENASHA YOUTH

Norman Kuhr, 22, Dies at 10:30 Thursday Night of Fractured Skull

Injuries sustained by Norman Kuhr, 22, Menasha, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Milton Giebisch, 530 W. College-ave, caused his death about 10:30 last night. The accident occurred about 2:30 New Year's morning on the Lake-ard, several miles south of Appleton. Kuhr's skull was fractured and his left leg was broken.

The accident occurred when Kuhr's car stalled on the highway and he, with Stewart Larson, 40, Fremont, and Robert Bellington, Ne-nah, got out of the machine planning to hail a passing motorist for aid. They halted a car driven by Hans Schmanjeske, North Fond du Lac, who stopped. Schmanjeske told Menasha police he parked his car on the same side of the road as Kuhr's car was parked. Kuhr and Larson were standing besides Kuhr's car when they were struck by Giebisch. Larson suffered a broken shoulder and is confined to St. Elizabeth hospital.

With Giebisch was George Kerrigan, Appleton. The car was owned by Harry M. Kerrigan.

Kuhr was born in Butternut, but was a resident of Menasha for about 10 years. Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kuhr; and one brother, Carol Kuhr, of Neenah. Funeral services will be held from Trinity Lutheran church at 2 o'clock the Rev. J. G. Pophy officiating. Interment will be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

ST. LOUIS GANGMAN HELD IN LINGLE CASE

Al Capone Ally Reported to Tip Off Police on New Suspect

Chicago — (AP) — Suspected of complicity in the slaying of Jake Lingle, Tribune crime reporter, Leo Loeffler, a St. Louis gangster, is held for questioning at a hotel, according to the Daily News.

Loeffler is reported to have been handed over to state's attorney's detectives on a tip from ally of Al Capone.

Loeffler, a former member of Egan's Rats gang of St. Louis, was captured 13 days ago. He has been under constant questioning since in the carefully guarded hotel suite where a dozen or more witnesses are reported to have tentatively identified him. Loeffler steadfastly denies knowledge of the murder.

Information that Loeffler might be the slayer came to Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, after his men had taken into custody a number of armed hoodlums during and after the recent wedding of Mafalda Capone, sister of the gang boss.

Gangsters are reported to have "pointed a finger at Loeffler only after conference with gangland superiors and advisers.

TRUCK DRIVER INJURED AS HE STRIKES POLE

Bernard Peterson, 117 E. Harris-st, received a painful laceration over the left eye about 6 o'clock Wednesday evening when the Brettschneider delivery truck he was driving struck a pole at the corner of Franklin-st. and Superior-st. Peterson struck the pole in an attempt to avoid a collision with another car at the intersection.

Back-Fire Injuries
Janitor at Y. M. C. A.

W. A. Mathes, janitor at the Y. M. C. A. was burned about the face Thursday night when an oil burner in the basement of the building back-fired. He is confined to his home at 1011 N. Harrison-st.

BURLINGTON POLICE CHIEF WINS MEDAL OF ANANIAS CLUB

Burlington — (AP) — Police Chief Frank Sellar says he never told a lie. Yet the annual contest of the Burlington Ananias club to determine the community's biggest liar was held in the police station yesterday. A medal with a picture of George Washington on one side and that of Ananias on the other, was given to the winner.

"Hello, chief," an Associated Press reporter called over the telephone, "who won the contest?"

"Nobody—Those Ananiases didn't show up. They couldn't even be truthful when they said they would enter. Thanks for calling."

"Another good story blown up," commented the reporter.

Burr-r-r-ring! The A. P. telephone rang again. O. C. Huelt, newly elected vice president of the club, was on the wire.

"Say, you know that liars' contest for all men over 70 years of age we had here today," he said, "well, a dark horse won—Chief Sellar. We were all set to give the prize to another man when someone asked the chief why he didn't compete."

"Can't he say, 'you all know I'm not old enough and besides, I never told a lie in my life.'"

"The chief was 73 last year and anyone who ever goes near headquarters knows he tells—well, anyway, he won hands down."

But with the lame ducks out and the newly elected Congress seated there is every likelihood that the amendment will receive a two-thirds vote in both House and Senate and thereafter be submitted to the states. No opposition is foreseen in the various state legislatures.

FOX HOUNDS TRAIL DONKEY AND LATTER HELPS HUNT REYNARD

Tring, Hertfordshire, England — (AP) — A little gray donkey has provided the biggest thrill of the English hunting season and furnished hunters with many hearty laughs.

A pack of drag hounds was being exercised near here yesterday when a donkey straying from a farmyard suddenly trotted into the midst, braying loudly and took off across the country at a gallop.

Off went the hounds in pursuit, chasing the ass hard into a wood. There he turned and faced the dogs, who instead of attacking the strange quarry lay down around him and watched to see what he would do next.

By coincidence a fox suddenly broke over nearby and the hounds, forgetting the donkey, immediately gave chase to the more natural game. The to the amazement of the huntsmen the ass joined the hounds, and galloped after the fox, leaping hedges and ditches in grand style, apparently enjoying the chase as much as the dogs, who seemed to welcome the championship.

All ended happily. The fox got away. The dogs were recalled by the huntsmen. And the donkey was caught and restored to the farmer.

$200,000 LOSS AS FIRE RAZES PRESS BUILDING

Employee of Baltimore Post Fatally Injured in Attempting to Escape

Baltimore, Md.—(P)—Fire in three hours last night destroyed the $200,000 four story plant of the Baltimore Post, a Scripps-Howard newspaper, taking one life and injuring six. Today the paper was being published at the Baltimore Sun while officials from New York attended a conference here to determine whether the plant would be rebuilt.

The fire started shortly after 6 o'clock with an explosion in the photographic department adjoining the editorial room on the second floor. Eighteen men were in the composing room on the floor above, preparing to send the last edition to the press room in the basement.

Joseph R. Douglas, a linotype operator on the third floor, rushed to a window and made a desperate leap for a ladder that was being raised by one of the first fire companies to arrive. He missed and plunged to the street, fracturing his skull. He died an hour later in a hospital.

The other members of the composing room staff escaped down a fire escape in the rear of the building; some leaping from windows after reaching the second floor.

Confusion followed and it was several hours before the editors of the paper had completed a check that showed all persons accounted for. For more than an hour it was believed five workmen were still trapped in the building.

Other Buildings Menaced

As the fire roared through the old building sheets of flame towered into the sky and sparks threatened adjoining property. Within an hour of the first alarm the roof crashed in carrying floors and tons of machinery and type into the basement.

More than 50 lines of hose were laid by 25 companies called by six alarms, sounded in quick succession.

Officials of the fire department today were seeking the cause of the explosion.

The fire was discovered by a watchman who observed smoke while walking across the second floor. He sounded the alarm and called to employees to vacate the building.

The injured included a battalion fire chief who received an arm fracture. Four of those hurt were employees of the paper. Their injuries were not serious.

The Post was established Nov. 20, 1922. The building was located at the corner of Lombard and Hanover streets in downtown Baltimore. Its walls were of brick but the interior was entirely of wood construction. Andrew D. Brashears was the editor and Urban J. Kraemer the business manager. It was Mr. Kraemer who estimated the loss at $200,000.

SHOEMAKER STARTS
TERM IN PRISON

Violates Probation by Commenting on Sentence Imposed by Judge

St. Paul, Minn.—F. H. Shoemaker, Rad. Wing editor and former congressional candidate, Monday was ordered committed to the Leavenworth penitentiary for violation of probation.

Shoemaker was sentenced to a year and a day in prison on charges of violating a postal statute after pleading guilty. The sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for five years.

Comments on the sentence made by Shoemaker in his publication, the Organized Farmer, were construed Monday by Federal Judge John B. Sanborn as violation of the probation.

(Shoemaker formerly lived at New London, Wis., where he participated in several stirring campaigns as a Nonpartisan league candidate for congressional nominations. Later he supported the progressives and in 1925 figured in a comic episode at Fremont, when he fell into the Wolf river after he had leaped on a platform to dispute statements made during a speech by Walter J. Kohler, then a candidate for governor.)

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU
"CAPRICORN"

If January 3rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on that date are from noon to 3 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m. The unfavorable periods are from 4:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:15 p. m.

January 3rd according to the planetary aspects does not hold out any bright prospects. On the contrary, it is a day of disappointment, a loss, or a disappointment. Prudence suggests that nothing should be done out of the ordinary routine, and peace should be maintained.

A child born on this January 3rd will be selfishly inclined and will not attract by winning or winsome ways. It will be self-centered, and age will aggravate, rather than ameliorate, this condition. In a material sense, it promises to be successful, as "No 1" will come first every time and all the time.

Born on January 3rd, you are of average ability, neither brilliant nor stupid, neither a genius nor a fool. Your ambitions are limited to having enough on which to run along, with a few recreations thrown in for good measure. You are thrifty, but by no means stingy; you do your allotted task conscientiously—not without, however, a fair measure of groaning. You fight shy of all responsibility, although fully alive to and conscious of your obligations. Your one aim in life is to get along as comfortably as possible, with little effort or exertion—and you make a fairly good job of it.

Your character is unassailable. You never make trouble for yourself, or for others. Your thinking is more active than your executive ability, and, as a result of keen observation and much reading, you have evolved a whimsical philosophy, and often astonish listeners by a degree of eruditions that comes as a surprise. You possess a strong sense of humor, and as a conversationalist, you are dry and witty. Your home life is full of contentment. You are not fussy or exacting, and are easily satisfied. Your temper is even, and your affections are concentrated. You are a real comfort to all times to those who live with you, and are always dependable.

Guard Against Disease, Health Society Warns

Madison—Never was there more health in store for the people of this country than in the new year which is now opening, if they would but guard against disease. The dangers of disease may be obviated in the coming year by proper precautions, according to the educational committee of the State Medical Society of Wisconsin in a bulletin issued today. Balance and check up the health accounts of your body as you do the book accounts of your business is the remedy.

"Consider, for instance, the findings in a survey of 10,000 industrial employees, supposedly well, who were called from their work, one by one, and examined with a view to the offering of any hygienic counsel that might increase their efficiency," continues the bulletin in reviewing a recent survey. "Among these 10,000 there was not a single person who could be rated in Class 1; that is, free from physical defect or impairment which could be benefited by some modification of their living habits. In 86 out of every 100, some abnormality was found in nine per cent, and serious conditions urgently demanding attention in five per cent."

"Even more startling were the results in a group of 100 policyholders in one of the life insurance companies, startling because all these individuals had at some previous time passed a medical examination. Minor defects requiring attention were found in 12 of the 100; moderate impairments, which would have eventually influenced length of life, in 79 advanced physical impairments which required systematic medical or surgical attention in 15, and 3 presented serious physical conditions demanding immediate medical or surgical help.

"Good health is our basic and our greatest asset in life. With it we may overcome almost any adversity. It is not that we are consciously striving to be 'perfect specimens' but that we should endeavor to eliminate the little difficulties which may become big handicaps to our continued well-being in such a short time."

PACIFIC GAS HAS STURDY STANDING AMONG INVESTORS

Company Is Largest Enterprise of Its Kind on Western Coast

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
(Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press)
(This is the seventeenth article of a series on the subject of public utilities, covering the principal operating and holding companies, giving their history, field of operations and an analysis of the capital structure. Mr. Hughes will discuss bonds as well as stocks but will present the facts without any attempt to recommend purchase or sale of specific securities.)

New York—As the largest enterprise of its kind on the Pacific Coast the Pacific Gas and Electric Company has a deservedly high standing among investors. Its growth has been steady and consistent with a satisfactory showing even during the present depression. Interest on funded debt was covered last year more than 2 1/2 times and fixed charges and preferred dividends 1 1/2 times. All bonds are high grade investments and the preferred stock which is outstanding in two series, both of $25 par, one paying 6 per cent and one paying 5 1/2 per cent, is a conservative holding. In large part these preferred stocks are held in the territory served. Outside of California public interest is concerned mostly with the common stock which is listed and actively dealt in on the New York Stock Exchange. It is of $25 par value and outstanding to the amount of $141,954,525 or 5,678,181 shares. On this stock in 1929 the sum of $3.27 a share was earned. In the first six months of 1930 net available for the common was $1.60 a share and for the full year it has been unofficially estimated that approximately $3.25 a share will be shown. The market price of the stock fluctuates over a wide range, something over 30 points during the year 1929. Earnings are capitalized by the market liberally as is the case with most public utility common stocks. The justification in the case of Pacific Gas and Electric is the same as with other prosperous operating companies, namely the periodic offerings to shareholders of rights to subscribe new capital. Pacific Gas and Electric has given such rights in each of four years from 1926 to 1929 inclusive. In 1929 there were two offerings, one of new common at par in the ratio of one for ten and the other in two parts, new common at par in the ratio of one for ten and new common at $55 a share likewise in the ratio of one for ten.

The average market price for these rights in that year was $3.15 a share for the first offering and $4 a share for the two concurrent offerings. These rights if sold at the market made a very substantial addition to the income of Pacific Gas and Electric common stockholders. It is not to be expected that offers on that scale will be made annually or even in every two or three years. THE THINGS HE MISSED

There is something human and revealing in that story about the New York family that gave an elaborate and expensive funeral to its dead son even though it has been almost destitute for months.

The family has been having hard luck for a long time. For months the father had been out of work. Then he got a part-time job that netted him $15 a week. There were eight children, and this didn't go far; indeed, the family would have been very badly off but for contributions from neighbors and charitable organizations.

Then this little boy—his name was Richard, and he was just four—was killed by an auto. And straightaway the family ordered a fine casket and a good funeral for him—the whole to cost $168, which is a lot of money when you're supporting a large family on $15 a week. Little Richard even got a new suit for the funeral, although he had never in his life had an all-new outfit on.

Now that pathetic little story is somehow very appealing, because it illustrates so well the blindness, the perversity and the futile and misdirected gestures of love that all of us, in one way or another, are heir to. To spend $168 on a funeral when one is suffering for want of food and clothing is folly, of course; but one's indignation over it is tempered by an appreciation of the sentiment that lay back of it.

And that sentiment, it seems to us, was not merely a vulgar desire to impress the neighbors. More probably it was a vague and pitiful yearning to do something for the dead youngster; a desire to make up to him, in the moment of his passing, for all the things that he had missed in his brief life. That new suit of clothes, for instance, is a revealing touch. Richard, who never had a new suit in his life, goes to his grave in brave new finery—could that come from anything but a wish to give the little lad a last taste of the brightness he had never had? And the nice, expensive casket, and the elaborate funeral—don't they, too, trace back to the same motive?

Of course, it was all very mistaken; just the sort of thing that causes social service workers to wring their hands and remark that some people hardly deserve help. But it is not such a hard thing to understand, after all. Human beings have a way of acting irrationally in trying times, even if it does horrify the social service workers. No grief in all the world is quite as terrible as the grief which comes when a small child dies. And when that child's life has been, not that mixture of sunshine and laughter and brightness of which every child's life ought to consist, but a long series of denials and deprivations—well, is it easy to condemn this family for failing to act sensibly?

THE NEW SENATOR

The rules and precedents of the United States senate do not permit of an ideal division of labor. Precedent is so firmly established that senators are selected for important committees, not for their ability or experience in their line of work, but rather for their length of service in the senate, or party loyalty. The old timers with years of service receive the plums, and new members must be content with memberships on committees of minor influence in national affairs.

It is interesting to note that Dwight Morrow, the new senator from New Jersey, who has attained marked success in three distinct fields—banking, diplomacy and naval affairs—is not made a member of any of the committees on finance, foreign relations or naval affairs. Instead his experience is directed to education and labor, military affairs, post office and post roads, printing, and public buildings and grounds.

Similarly James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, who was President Hoover's

Secretary of Labor, is made a member of the committee on banking and currency, manufactures, civil service and inter-oceanic canals. Thus his experience of many years in specialized work on labor conditions is not available to the committee having charge of that important subject. Instead of taking the finished education of these men in their particular lines and putting it to good use, the government insists upon giving them a new education in wholly different fields. As Herbert Plummer says in his Washington notes, "the lot of a new senator is similar to that of the American soldier described in the words of the famous old bugle call:

You're in the army now;
You're not behind the plough."
Or like Kipling's immortal British soldier:
"It matters not wot e'er 'e was before,
Or wot 'is parents' fancied for 'is nyme;
When 'e's pocketed 'is shilling and 'is uniform, 'e's filling,
'is nyme is Tommy Atkins just the syme."

THE THIRD PARTY

The suggestion by Professor John Dewey now serving as chairman of the League for Independent Political Action that a third party should be formed to house the so-called Progressive element in the Republican party with the expectation that it would also attract a similar element from the Democratic party, has received no approval at the hands of those who have to do with practical politics.

After the efforts in this direction of Theodore Roosevelt in 1912 and Senator LaFollette in 1924, and lacking the able and dynamic leadership of those captains of lost causes, the present minority element in the Republican party considers the formation of a third party as practically impossible.

The fact is that men cannot make political parties in this country. It takes issues and sizable ones. The Republican party had no great difficulty in displacing the old Whig party in 1856, although it had no particular leadership at that time but the people seemed to sense the approaching disaster of Civil war and the futility of trying to deal with it through the old party. Then it was that a new party came to life and quickly enough.

A third party is practically impossible at this time, because, although there is a good deal of acrimonious debate, backbiting and hurling of epithets there is basically no such far and wide difference of opinion concerning vital principles as endangers our structure of government or the material welfare of the people. Leading Progressives regard the public utility issue as one of supreme importance, and there is no question but that its shadow on public affairs is growing day by day, but in helping to force onto the present administration the fatuous nostrum of socialism in the form of a policy of pegging prices they may have lost the confidence of the people just at a time when they need it most in order to push their power control policy.

Senator Norris claims that the starting of a third party is impractical because we do not have direct voting for president and that he will introduce a constitutional amendment to provide direct election instead of our present system of choosing electors. How can Senator Norris conclude that the failure to start third parties is blamable upon the constitution when such strong figures as Roosevelt and LaFollette both failed to secure a plurality of the direct votes to say nothing of a majority? Any time the people get back of a third party candidate in sufficient numbers he will be elected under our present system just as certainly as under any other.

WOLFE'S BIRTH

On Jan. 2, 1757, James Wolfe, a British general, famed for his attack on Quebec, was born in Kent, England, the son of an army officer. James entered the army at an early age and in recognition of his gallantry in campaigns in Flanders and in Scotland, he was steadily promoted. In 1759, when Pitt was organizing his grand scheme to expel the French from Canada, Wolfe, then a major general, was the choice to lead the expedition.

Wolfe landed about four miles from Quebec and with a force of 9,000 men proceeded at once to attack the stronghold. The first attack failed, Wolfe, retreating with a loss of 400 men. He then decided on the dangerous experiment of scaling the heights above Quebec. After more than 4,500 British had ascended the steep cliffs, Montcalm, French commander, opened fire.

The inexperienced French lines were shattered. Wolfe, as he led the charge, was mortally wounded, dying as his men gained victory. Montcalm, dying too, said, "It is a great consolation to have been vanquished by so brave an enemy."

THE REVOLT OF THE BABIES

NO. 6—GIVING THE BABY A RUB ON THE CHEST.

A mother writes:

In answer to your rub-on-the-chest talk I can't help saying I wonder what mothers who don't rub on the chest would do if they lived nine miles from the nearest doctor and had no money for doctor bills and no car to go to the doctor with, for every cold and fever.

I have two children, a 4 and 2-year-old and they have all kinds of spells that onions and camphorated oil doctored them over.

We country mothers must depend on our own doctoring, as we don't have a doctor next door to call in on short notice.

So far as the onions go—and boy, they go far—there is no objection to the method of this mother. But the camphorated oil is not entirely harmless. It is a fine old reliable household remedy, and I'd prefer to depend on it if my own child were ill, rather than use any of the nostrums urged upon the baby for such purpose. Still, in the case of a young infant, where a too lavish use of camphorated oil is made, there is a chance of camphor poisoning. For that reason, as well as the general comfort of the sick child and the child's attendants, it is better when applying camphorated oil to the chest, throat or over the bridge of the nose, to wipe away the excess before dressing the child again or putting on the nightgown. It is unnecessary, and a little dangerous, to leave the young infant's clothing or bed covers saturated with camphorated oil, for that means that the baby will inhale some camphor at every breath, and in the course of a night or a day this may be sufficient to intoxicate the child, to cause camphor poisoning. That is not necessarily fatal, but it does no good.

There are many other things oftered for rubbing on the chest, for bronchitis, coughs and other respiratory troubles, but I doubt there is anything better for this purpose than camphorated oil, not for applying to the neck for the relief of sore throat and hoarseness or laryngitis, nor for rubbing over the bridge of the nose, for acute coryza. Note I say nothing about "colds." Note I know just what a "cold" may be. A mother should prepare camphorated oil freshly when needed, by crumbling an ounce of camphor gum into fine pieces and putting them in a bottle with four ounces of hot "sweet oil" olive oil or cottonseed oil, until dissolved. Keep the bottle tightly corked, as camphor evaporates if it stands unused for a time. The proper name for this camphorated oil is camphor liniment, and it is in fact a very good liniment for application in any case of soreness or lameness where a liniment is desired. Indeed, I believe it will accomplish all that any pretentious nostrum of that type can do for such soreness or lameness.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Black Hair.

I wrote five weeks ago asking you what color this copperas hair dye makes the hair when it is used as you recommend. I have not yet received an answer. (Mrs. T. R.)

Answer—I'd file a complaint with the postoffice department at Washington. I do not recommend a copperas hair dye. Copperas is not copper, as one might imagine, but a name for iron sulphate. I do suggest that by the daily or frequent application of iron sulphate and tea to the hair, persons with black or dark brown hair may conceal the graying hair. Dissolve a teaspoonful of iron sulphate in a pint of ordinary black (Japan) tea. This makes an ink fluid. It is quite safe to use indefinitely. I cannot recommend the use of hair dyes.

Answer—Perhaps you can get some helpful information from the booklet, "Guide to Right Eating," copy of which will be sent you for Calcium Lactate for Asthma.

Some one mentioned in your column the relief he had obtained from asthma by taking certain tablets you suggested. I am not sure whether it was calcium carbonate or not. (E. W.)

Answer—Perhaps calcium carbonate would be quite as effective, but I think it was calcium lactate. Many persons subject to spasmodic asthma, hives, giant hives, periodic sick headache (migraine), or hyperesthetic rhinitis, have experienced much benefit or lasting relief from a course of calcium medication, especially when this is coupled with suitable regulation of the thyroid gland function. A dose of 10 grains of calcium lactate should be taken after each of the three meals, daily, over a period of several months. You must have your physician's attention for the regulation of the thyroid function, the in not a few cases a hypothyroidism or low thyroid function may be corrected by means of a suitable iodine ration, which anyone may take and most of us should take every season.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE Tynmites were tickled pink and Scouty said, "Gee, just to think that we have met a hunter who hunts lions all day long. I'll bet he has a lot of fun when he steps out and shoots his gun. A great big gun weighs quite a bit. I'll bet he's good and strong."

The hunter heard the last remark and smilingly he shouted, "Hark! I'll tell you how our hunting is done. Don't interrupt me, please. Just be as quiet as can be and listen closely, lads, to me. You think that it is dangerous, but really it is fun.

"We ride out where the lions are. From here it isn't very far. And there we build a blind of grass into which we hide. At times we wait for hours. I guess, but quite alert, in readiness to shoot at any lion. It is thrilling, when it's tried.

"If everything works out all right, the lion soon comes into sight. And then we take real careful aim before we bang away. A lion's quick and may jump free. He's always scared as he can be. A hunter feels real happy when he finally gets his prey."

"Oh, gee! I'd like to try that feat. I think that it would be a treat," cried Clowdy. Then the hunter said, "Let's see if you can ride. I'll get my horse and gallop round and do some prancing on the ground. Then you can ride up with me." "That's just fine," was Clowdy's cry.

The hunter did as he had said and then he shouted, "Come ahead!" Then Clowdy quickly climbed up and he gave the horse a slap. Away they went and, what a ride! "Hurray!" the other Tynmites cried. Brave Clowdy hung on tight, while sitting in the hunter's lap.

A Bystander

In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—The senate in session again and John Benjamin Kendrick is in his seat on the democratic side of the aisle—

But it will be several days yet before he really feels at home.

These intervals between sessions of congress give Kendrick opportunity to ride the roundup and eat from the chuck wagon again. And he takes a little time to shake off the one and put on the other.

The Senator hails from the "wide open spaces" of Wyoming. He is, in every sense of the word, a man of the west. Even after years of service in Washington, he still shows the effect of the sun and wind of the prairies on his countenance.

Bronzed, he stands six feet, and his body is powerful and muscular. He directs his ranch from Washington, but in the summer he never fails to go back to his small empire in the west—an empire of some 200,000 acres for his cattle located in northern Wyoming and southern Montana.

LIKE LINCOLN

One might well liken Wyoming's senior senator to Abraham Lincoln. He is the cowboy prototype of Lincoln. And he studied by lantern light in the ranch bunkhouse while his fellow cowpunchers were "whooping it up" in saloons and dance halls in nearby towns.

He had completed only seven grades of grammar school when he became a cowboy at the age of 16. Eight years later he felt the need of more education. So in a Wyoming ranch bunkhouse he started to grind away nightly on grammar, arithmetic and history.

Kendrick got so in the habit of studying that even now he always carries a book wherever he goes. Whether on the roundup, in the cattle train or elsewhere.

OPPOSES GAMBLING

His method of attack was novel. Once he caught a bunch of his cowboys playing poker. He didn't disperse them. Instead, he "sat in" himself and, before it was finished, he had "cleaned" the entire group. One of the wealthiest livestock ranchers of northern Wyoming, he started with nothing.

It was "riding trail" on thousands of head of cattle that brought Kendrick to Wyoming in 1879.

On the trip west he rode trail on a herd of cattle from Matagorda Bay on the Gulf of Mexico in Texas to the Running Water river in northeastern Wyoming, a distance of 1,500 miles, the journey taking five months.

It was with the $150 he saved out of this trip that he got his start as a cattle owner.

Kendrick has been in politics since 1910. His first public office was membership in the state senate. In 1914 he was elected governor, but resigned three years later to come to the United States senate.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York — Leaves from a New Yorker's notebook:

Science is responsible for the radio, so it was fitting that the hero of one should meet the idol of the other.

It was at the Macabean festival at Madison Square Garden, where Dr. Albert Einstein was the guest of honor.

The great German scientist arose and spoke a few words of greeting to the Zionists of America. Then he sat through a couple of announcements and a bit of music. Then he got up to leave. As he left the audience stood up and applauded.

The applause died down, but in a moment it began again. Rudy Vallee had appeared. He began to sing and the hall was quiet. He sang "Eli, Eli," the Jewish song. Then he chanted a popular number, as an encore.

It seemed to be a casual spectator that maybe relatively figured here. But try as he could, he was unable to work it out. The time was too short, the space too great.

"VERY GOOD"

Another function for the Einsteins was a performance of "Carman" at the Metropolitan opera house. Afterward Dr. Einstein went backstage to renew his acquaintance with Madame Jeritza, the prima donna, whom he knew in Vienna.

The news photographers were there, of course, but the dressing room was too crowded for pictures, so the cameras were set up on the stage. As the scientist eventually emerged, the cameramen got ready for him. He walked right past them, however, with the cameramen running after, calling, "Professor, Professor!"

At his car, one of the opera attaches caught him.

"Dr. Einstein," he said, "the photographers are waiting on the stage to take your picture."

Einstein smiled politely.

Sehr gut," he said, and, entering the car, was driven away, leaving the opera man at the curb.

CHRISTMAS COSTS

Every Christmas the Manhattan householder who lives in an apartment staffed and liveried employees must think of the cost. In our house, a typical one, for instance, there are six elevator operators, two doormen, a package room boy, a porter and a superintendent, besides the superintendent, each of whom expected to receive from $2 to $5 from each family.

Landlords avoid taking on new employees just before Christmas if they can help it, because it has been their experience that often the newcomers work only long enough to garner the several hundred dollars in tips that come to them December 24, then quit their jobs before New Year's day.

In the fashionable hotels the Christmas tips are an even larger item. One man who lives in a Park-ave hotel has it all figured out to a cent.

He would feel obliged to distribute $200 among the lackeys on Christmas eve. So every year he leaves for a Florida resort on December 23 and doesn't come back until after New Year's. Thus he saves enough to pay for his annual holiday.

Barbs

If the unemployed have no income, they are at least being paid attention.

Sinclair Lewis declares that American professors like their literature "very dead." They have always favored rather grave reading.

John Ringling, circus man, has taken a bridge. And now skeptics are saying he hasn't got a show.

The prices of diamonds were cut in half in Amsterdam recently. The way of all flesh!

Apologies the prohibition victory in Finland, cynical Sade wants to know of what use are Figs in a dry country.

More Acreage In Mint Farms

Shafter, Calif. (AP)—Mint growing has progressed rapidly in this district in the last three years from a small planting of two acres.

Thousands of dollars were received by growers this year.

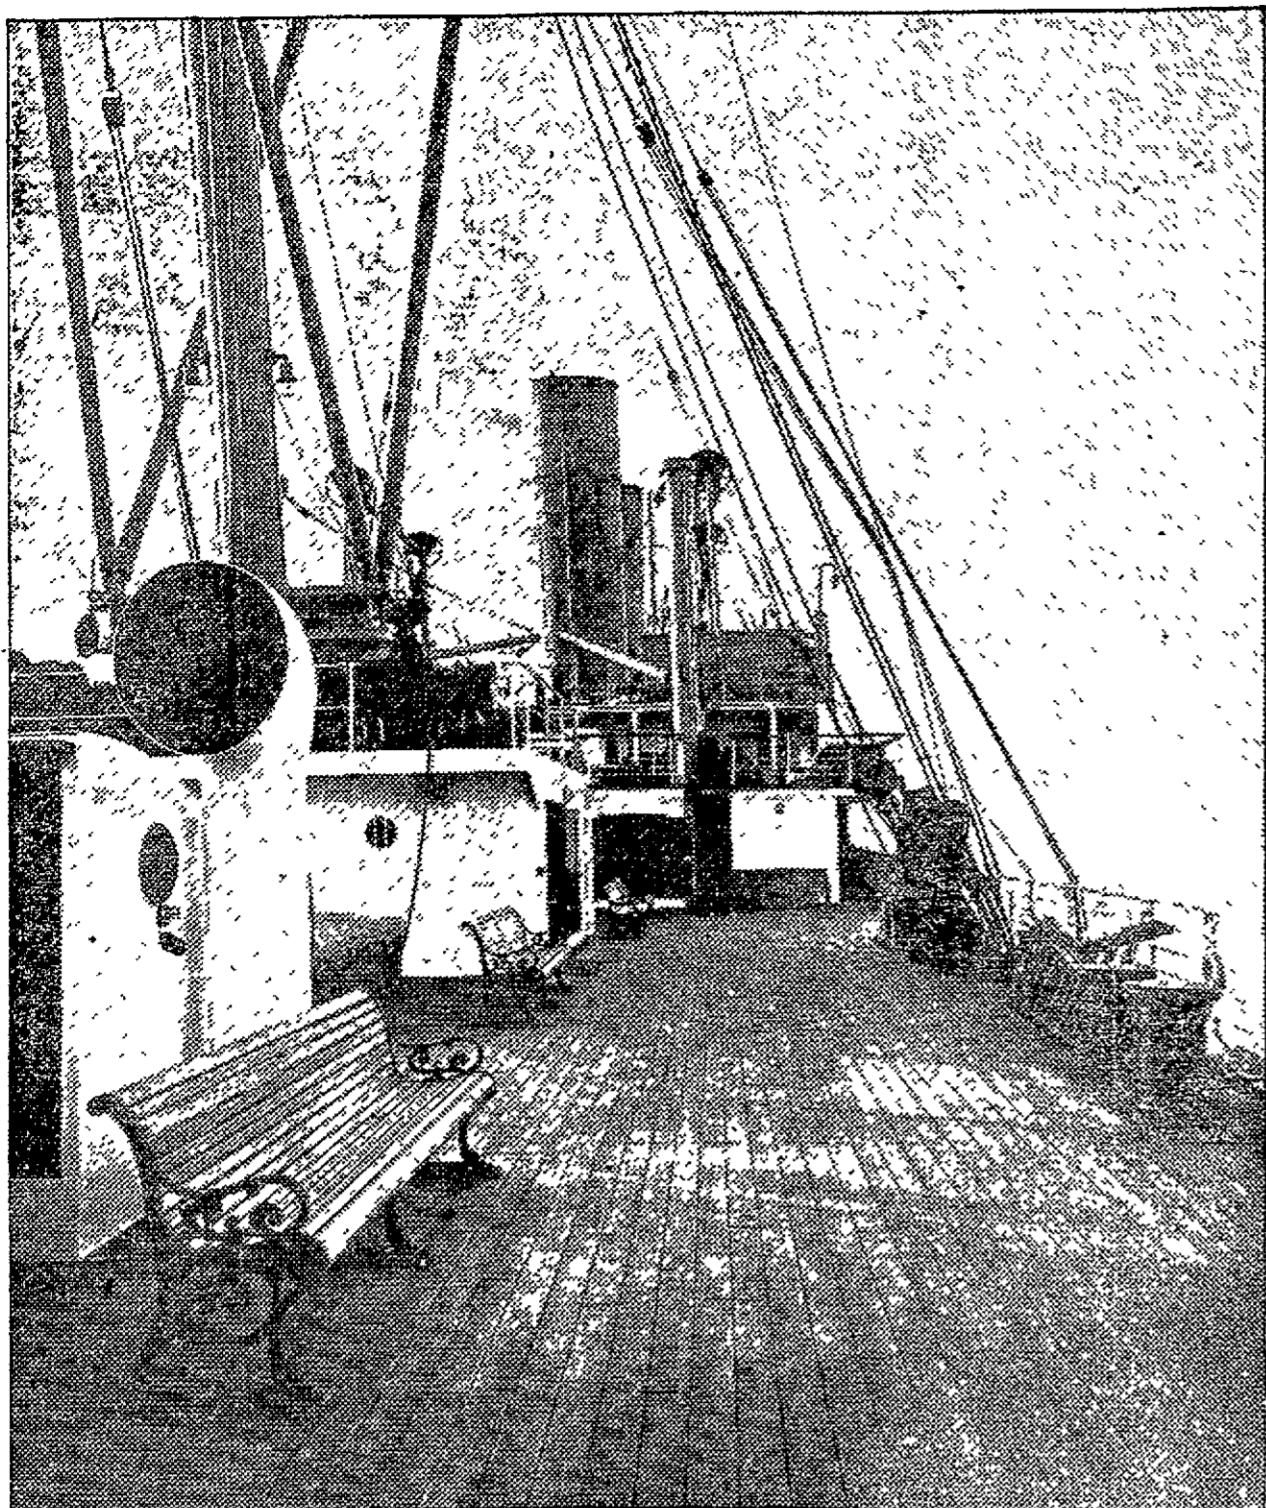

A modern electrically equipped distilling plant to convert the mint into essential oil has been built.

The oil is contracted for on a definite basis and cash is paid at the still.

You're Going to Europe Intelligently, Comfortably Via Chartered Accommodations

Perhaps you are one of those people who are particular about your accommodations when traveling. Then there's good news for you on your trip to Europe with the Outagamie County Educational Pilgrimage which leaves Appleton on July 7.

Chartered Third Class — a dignified mode of travel which thousands of intelligent tourists have been using for years — is to be your headquarters on the Canadian Pacific Liner Minnedosa. By "chartered" we mean that an entire section of the boat — all of it well above the water-line — has been reserved exclusively for your party. This section includes the greater part of THREE decks. Plenty of room in which to play!

Your cabin — available for two, three or four persons — contains modern berths with spring mattresses, plenty of clean, fresh linen and wardrobe facilities. Decks provide ample room for recreation, lounging rooms are comfortably furnished, dining rooms attractive and meals varied and appetizing. Other groups, Kiwanis, the American Legion and the Luther League, have gone aboard in these quarters.

The liner Minnedosa — to be used by your party — is a splendid, modern ship of 15,200 gross registered tonnage with twin reciprocating and single turbine engines and triple screws. It is 548 feet long, 67 feet wide and travels at 18 knots.

You're an adventurer next summer, but you'll do it in the modern manner.

EDUCATION AIM IS STRAIGHT THINKING

Student Should Be Able to Apply What He Has Learned, Says Bleyer

Boston.—(AP)—The test of a successful college education is whether a person can think straight and apply what he has learned to present-day social, political, and economic problems, Dr. Willard G. Bleyer, director of the University of Wisconsin school of journalism, said in an address here yesterday. He spoke to the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism and to the American Association of Teachers of Journalism on "What Schools of Journalism Are Trying to Do."

He said he is of the opinion that graduates of schools of journalism can meet this test, and that such schools are preparing students to meet it.

Dr. Bleyer held:

"Unfortunately for too many of the students enrolled in our liberal arts colleges, lack of purpose and direction in their work, results, under the elective system now general in vogue, in a more or less haphazard choice of studies, with little effort on their part to think seriously about what they are studying in application to present day problems."

He then countered:

"A well-organized four-year course of study in preparation for journalism in which required and elective courses in history, economics, government and politics, sociology, psychology, science, and literature are being pursued at the same time that students are taking courses in journalism, gives purpose and direction to the students' work and shows them what these other studies mean in relation to the life and work of the world."

Professor Bleyer dealt at length on the question of whether the study of journalism is justified in a college course.

He said that newspapers and periodicals are of sufficient importance to the success of democratic government and the welfare of society to warrant the teaching of journalism.

Nagging Can Drive Child From Mother

BY ANGELO PATRI

Sometimes children stop to talk to me and occasionally they open their pack of troubles seeking a word of consolation and hope. A complaint that I hear frequently is the nagging of over-consciousness mothering. The girls seem to suffer most. Perhaps the boys escape to the outside world and so get out of reach of mother and more completely than is possible for the girls.

"I don't want to complain about my mother. I like my mother of course, but she drives me nearly frantic. When I come home from school I am tired. I have worked hard. I have to because I stand high in my classes. The minute I lay down my books and sit down to rest mother says, 'Where are your lessons? Why don't you begin right away and get them done?' She will keep at me that way until I either go to work or get into a battle. When I speak sharply about it she cries. I say 'I'm ungrateful and don't love her.'

"I have an allowance that covers my school expenses and my clothes. I try to be careful of my money and I think I do very well. Every once in a while my mother gets nervous about my money. She thinks I have more than I should have after spending for clothes and things. No matter how I explain, no matter how I point to my account book and show her where every penny has gone, she is quite sure that I have not done by the money honestly. She never says so but her idea is plain. Sometimes I feel like screaming.

"I can't speak to a boy. No boy dares to come near our house. The boys I know are the ones that go to school with me and live in the neighborhood. My mother knows them as well as she knows me but that makes no difference. They are boys and I am not to be trusted with boys. You can see where all this gets me. Pretty soon I'll be out of everything and will have to sit at home with mother listening to her worrying about me doing 'all the wrong things she can't imagine and all the time I'm worse than a prisoner. Can't you say something to mother to show them what mischievous all this anxiety does?'

Anxiety feeds upon itself. Once a mother fears for the safety of her children she finds it hard to drop the fear and cling to hope and faith and the knowledge of her sound instruction. If the children have been trained to right living from little up, they are very likely to continue in it through adolescence. Childhood, adolescence, all humanity, in whatever stage of growth tends toward idealism. We would all rather be right than wrong.

Rest on your past work. Surely you believe in what you have done toward strengthening your children? Adolescence is not the time for watching and restricting and hampering children. All the guiding and training must be done before adolescence. When that period sets in, it is time to change the parental attitudes and share life with the children more as equals struggling toward a goal than as dependents, helpless and without intelligence.

Adolescent boys and girls need help, but they must be helped more through a sympathetic understanding of their needs than by a dominating influence that allows them no freedom of spirit. Guard against anxiety in your relationship with children. It is unhealthy for all concerned.

CHINESE PUT BAN ON DANCE, CLAIM ACT IS IMMORAL

Smart Set Idle as Government Decrees Youth is Corrupted in Dance

Nanking.—(AP)—The society leaders of this city's Chinese smart set are beginning to wonder what they can do with their spare time.

Dancing, the most popular form of recreation in the national capital of China, has been forbidden by the government on the ground that it tends to corrupt the morals of the young. With little else to do in the way of amusement, Chinese boys and girls are strictly up against it for some way to fill in their idle moments.

The order forbidding dancing was instigated by a group of moralists who believed that anything western, even music, could do the younger generation of China no good. Naturally it has caused plenty of trouble.

Dancing girls were thrown out of work and with the same field in Shanghai more or less over-crowded, they had no place to go. Hotel and dance hall proprietors were caught with heavy investments and high-priced Filipino orchestras on their hands and there was nothing they could do about it.

Appeals to the government were futile and apparently Nanking must make the best of it for the time being at least.

Since Nanking was made the capital of China two and a half years ago, dancing had become very popular with the Chinese society leaders and every member of the smart set knew the latest ball room steps.

"General Liu Chi-Wen" had most to do with popularizing dancing. He was mayor of the city when the Nationalists moved their government in and being fond of dancing himself, granted dancing permits to hotels and restaurants that might not have been issued otherwise.

His successor continued the practice of issuing dancing hall permits and for a time everything was lovely. Then came the decree from the National Government itself ordering the municipal authorities to abolish all dancing in the city.

Too many young people were going astray, the order stated, adding that dancing was largely to blame.

Then wash them well, drain and return to the pan. Cover again with fresh water, season with salt, pepper and grated nutmeg, add a bunch of parsley, six small onions and four ounces of salted pork cut into square pieces, and cook for three-quarters of an hour, taking care to skim well.

Add one pint of raw potatoes and three table-spoonfuls of flour diluted with a breakfast cupful of water. Stir until it boils, and cook for ten minutes. Remove the parsley and transfer the whole to a deep earthenware baking-dish, then moisten the edges of this slightly with water, and cover the top with crust.

Brush the surface over with egg, make a few transverse lines in the paste with a fork, and cut a hole in the center. Bake in a brisk oven for fifteen minutes and send to the table.

TWO WISCONSIN SENATORS NOT SURE OF SEATS

Attention Focuses on Nelson and Duncan as Next Session Nears

BY EWARD L. ALMEN
Madison.—(AP)—With the convening of the state legislature a fortnight away, attention is being focused on the status of two senators—Philip E. Nelson, Maple, and Thomas M. Duncan, Milwaukee.

As yet Nelson, representing the 11th district, is only a senator-elect but uncertainty exists as to the possibility of excluding him from the upper house. Several weeks, rumors have been current in Milwaukee that Sen. Duncan's seat would be contested.

Senator-elect Nelson, who served as an assemblyman in the last session of the legislature, is still at odds with the interim committee on campaign expenditures. Several weeks ago the senator-elect defied the committee's right to investigate the 1930 primary campaign and refused to be sworn as a witness.

Although Gov. Walter Kohler has appointed Attorney General John Reynolds to act as committee counsel in order to force testimony from Nelson, the case has not yet reached the courts, to which it was destined by the action of the committee. A resolution introduced by Assemblyman Robert Nixon, Washburn and passed by the committee, urging that the primary campaign records be sent to the Dane county court was the last important step known to have been taken by the committee.

The relatively short time before the opening session of the legislature, however, may not permit time for court action and the matter would then probably be placed before the senate. Nelson defeated a candidate receiving LaFollette support in both the primary and regular elections and as a result he may get conservative aid in his bid for the senate seat. Taken all in all, the Nelson controversy may prove to be the first bone of contention in the evenly divided senate this session.

As for Sen. Duncan, there has been no open opposition but reports emanating from Milwaukee would indicate that his right to a senate seat would be challenged on the ground that he is not a resident of the district which he represents. It is contended that the senator resided outside the sixth district at the time of his election in 1928 and that therefore Otto Tetzlaff, the Republican candidate, was legally elected.

Just how Sen. Duncan's opponents hope to contest his seat is not clear. The senator was elected in 1928 and sat in the upper house during the last session. After his election the records were certified by the secretary of state and by the state board of canvassers and his victory was accepted by his senate colleagues.

Under the statutes, notices of contested legislative elections, must be filed by January 3. Translating the statutes literally, Sen. Duncan's opponents would have had to file notice of their complaint on or before Jan. 3, 1930. Whether the senate can overrule this point and decide that Sen. Duncan is not entitled to his seat because he was never legally elected is a matter of conjecture.

While Senator-elect Nelson may find conservative support in the senate, Sen. Duncan is assured of Progressive support. The Milwaukee senator has been closely associated with Gov.-elect Philip LaFollette since the latter's election although the senator was elected on the Socialist ticket.

AIR COURT
Vienna—Austria and Poland have come to an air agreement whereby all air disputes are to be aired in a court of arbitrations when they cannot be settled through ordinary diplomatic channels. A member from each country and another from a third country will make up the court. The third member will be chairman and decide where the court shall be held.

Don't hesitate to ask the cost

In making preparations for a funeral, some have not even considered the burial vault, feeling that the cost limited this form of protection to the very wealthy.

The fact is that the Buckstaff Burial Vault, which guarantees positive protection for the remains, is easily within the means of the average family. Ask us about it.

A fitting farewell to the one who has passed on—a comforting memory for those who remain—this is the double purpose of our service. With this in mind, we provide only the best in service, equipment and merchandise.

Here's a lovely model for day wear in printed flat crepe. It's charmingly slender.

The bodice cuts all in one until it joins the skirt flounce that gives smart animation in its circular cut. Another idea for this easily made model that will make it appear entirely different, is to make it sleeveless with the cape collar as shown in the miniature views. You'll like it immensely in black chiffon for Sunday nights.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

NOW the firelight seemed to spring into flame again on the hearth and the dreaming violet sent out a stronger, more insistent perfume. And Jack's words lingered in the room.

"Do you just mean that you're tired of me?"

But Sue was remembering some words of Nancy Becker's, spoken earlier in the day, spoken to Corinne when Nancy had not known that she was listening.

"I've been talking to Mrs. Thornton," Miss Parsons, as I insist on remembering her. Some women may marry three or four times and still they have a spinster outlook on the grand play. She thinks that Sue is the girl for Jack but that it would be better if they would break off just now.

"I don't know, Corinne, but I might be wiser. Not that I want to make anyone suffer. I'd wear a ring and go barefoot across the world for a man I loved. But I never loved anyone like that, so I took a yacht and a private car to make the journey go faster. When love isn't there, comfort is important! Maybe the strongest, surest way for Sue to bind Jack is to slip out of this now, before their engagement gets a lot of tabloid publicity. Jack will know and she will know. But he'll be free. And she'll be free."

"But that isn't love," Corinne's vibrant tones had answered. "Did you ever go to Bible School, Nancy? I used to. Every Sunday. And there were some verses we used to say. 'Love suffereth long and is kind, hopeth all things, endureth all things, believeth all things.' Oh, I can't quote it the way that it goes, but something of that sort. And it said that love never fails! So Sue and Jack will stick to each other, Nancy!"

"I don't know much about the Bible," Nancy's throaty drawl had replied. "I seem to remember Heaven as a painted Sunday School card where God sat on a golden throne and let his blue robe trail across the sky. But he stood for justice! And if there is something real between Sue and Jack it will stay. Nothing real passes away."

"If it stays, and neither of them know it, what good will it do?" Corinne asked.

Sue turned back to Jack, and her eyes were pensive-purple in the firelight shadows, and her lips were tender.

"Jack, you'll believe me, won't you, when I say that I love you more than anything anyone. . . in the world! More than my mother or father? And I could give up the world for you? There are some girls who can make a play for love and guess along and throw out promises, and keep one now and then and break the rest. But I'm not that way. Love is. . . or it isn't."

"But Jack, I can't ask you to stay now. I'm too upset."

"Oh, my dear!" Crushed against the tweed of his coat, with the pungent fragrance of shaving soap and

WE WOMEN

By Betty Brainerd

THE HUSBAND SHIRKER

"Dear Betty Brainerd: I have a ten-months-old son and my husband never offers to help me with him. My husband will romp around with him and get him tired and nervous—then, succeeding in this, he retires behind his newspaper. He won't even help me on Sundays when he is around the house all day."

"I have a girl friend who was married the same time I was and they have a daughter a little over a year old. Her husband helps her with the dishes, gives the baby a drink at night and wheels her around for blocks in her carriage. He gets a lot of fun out of having people stop to admire his baby. My girl friend says it makes him, as proud as Punch."

"My husband says it is not a man's work to help with the baby. Do you think my husband is right?" Mrs. McP.

Of course he is not.

Just who has the right to define what is and what isn't man's work? According to his lights, a woman should not throw coal in the furnace in the middle of the day, or sweep off a light fall of snow—but women do this and other so-called men's jobs.

It is pleasant to have a soft baby's grateful hug and an excited yelp from the toddler who watches a father's home-coming from the window.

But there is a pleasure tax on all such joys.

Mothers pay this in more ways than one—and pay and pay and pay and pay.

But some fathers try to avoid all payment.

I recall a lecture I once heard a famous surgeon give a young couple who had a teething baby. "This small atom belongs to both of you," he said. "Happy marriages to remain happy and healthy, must be based on the theory of give and take. Remember this baby belongs to both of you—its joys and responsibilities, too."

The wise course is to have both father and mother give the baby their attention. It is not well for the child to be with one of them all the time. Babies, too, like human diversions.

If the father does not share some of the burden he will make a lot of pleasure as well as deny the baby a paternal contact of much vital significance—a significance that an old briar pipe in her nostrils, Sue tried to finish and couldn't.

"As a lawyer you'd be a flop. You state a case and then give all the reasons to prove why it isn't so. If you think I'm walking out of this particular picture now or at any time, you're making a detour that won't get you any place. Being inside the house too much has gone to your head. Come on, there's a spring moon tonight. Let us get some air."

As Sue dusted a cotton powder ball across her flushed cheeks, a minute later, she had a sense that something would happen before she came back that night.

NEXT: Corinne has a fight. (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

FACIAL MASKS SUITABLE TO OILY SKINS

BY ALICIA HART

There are certain facial masks that you can make at home that are especially suitable to oily skins.

If your skin is oily, in addition to regular daily home treatments, why not try a mask the next time you are feeling a bit low and really want a pick-me-up?

Two kinds of home-made masks that are especially good for your face, if your skin is oily, are the fresh lemon mask and the yeast mask.

The fresh lemon mask is quite different from most of the masks mentioned in this column because you take a juicy fresh lemon, slice it as thin as you can and put the slices over your face and neck, holding your head back so they stick.

Then place over the lemon slices a towel wrung out of quite hot water, the hotter the better, though, of course, you must not in any way scald your face. Press the towel all around your face, down the sides of your nose and mouth, leaving space to breathe freely. Leave on until the towel gets cold, wring out again and apply once more. Three applications of the towel, or even two, are enough to get the benefit of the bleaching and astringent lemon. The heat opens up the pores and allows the lemon to cleanse and close them again.

When you have finished, splash your face with cooling astringent and see how much fresher—and cleaner—you look and how jerked up your face feels. Then use your favorite cream and give yourself a smooth base for your make-up.

The yeast pack is quite different. Take a couple of cakes of yeast and mix with just enough milk to make a thick paste. Spread over the face with the back of a tablespoon, if you mind the feel of yeast in your fingers. As a matter of fact, if you put the yeast on with your fingers and as a final touch smooth it out all over your face and neck with the back of a spoon, it is a good method.

Lie down for 20 minutes when registers definitely and indelibly on even a baby's mind.

Perhaps later on, when your son is asked about his daddy, he may reply, as did the daughter of a friend of mine—unless your husband changes: "Oh, he is the man who comes home and spansks me on Sundays."

you have the yeast spread all over your face. When you get up, instead of removing the mask as you have removed most of the masks mentioned, just massage your face as if the yeast were a cream.

It will roll off the face, quite a lot darker in color than it was when you put it on. That is the dirt it has extracted from your face!

The minute it is all off, use an astringent and then cream your face for make-up.

Mysterious Charity Giver Helps New York's Jobless

New York—(AP)—He is a man of mystery, a man of charity without glory, once a down-and-out. Mr. Glad is the name he uses.

He passes out sandwiches and coffee to the unemployed. He passes out nickels that they may have care in their unceasing search for work. He advertises for people to send him old gloves at 946 Broadway, that he may pass them on to warm the hands of the unfortunate.

Who is he? The Broadway address is just a place where he calls for his mail.

"It really doesn't matter whether my name is Jones, Cohen, Murphy or Smith, or whether I am in the insurance business, or dry-goods, or banking, or what-not," is his answer, by letter, to a request for an interview.

"I am just an ordinary business man, who does not want his identity revealed. If it were, people would think, perhaps, that what I am doing was being done with some ulterior purpose, which I assure you is not the case."

"There is a mystery and a kick in 'Mr. Glad' that arouses a spirit of charity in the minds of those who have for those who have not. This would not be so if I revealed my identity. Even the sisters of St. Vincent's hospital, to whom I gave 3,000 sandwiches and 3,000 cups of coffee last week to serve their breadline, do not know who I am. They promised not to tell, but I convinced them, I think, that it is better that they not know."

With each sandwich, with each nickel, with each pair of gloves, Mr. Glad dispenses cheer in the form of a small printed slip.

"Cheer up, brother," it says. "Every cloud has a silver lining. Keep up your nerve, and everything will come out all right. Six years ago everyone thought I was down and out except myself."

"I had had a two-year siege of illness which included four operations, and dropped from 180 pounds to 98 pounds. My business, which had taken fifteen years to build up, was smashed to smithereens, and I had to start all over at 52 years of age."

"I came back. So will you—if you have the heart and will to do. My business is again a success—enough so, at least, so that I can do this little bit to help others less fortunate."

"I am glad to do this little bit because my heart is filled with gratitude to my Maker for all the blessings he has bestowed upon me after everything looked so black—to everyone but me. I never lost hope. I want you to do likewise."

"Have the will to do, have patience, have hope, place your faith in God, and you will come out on top."

In his letter, Mr. Glad told the Associated Press: "You would do me a great favor if you would have some sort of a reading notice published in various papers asking the 'fellows with a job' to send in to me the half-worn gloves which they are now wearing."

"It's Mr. Glad, 946 Broadway."

EIGHT WORLD FAIR BUILDINGS TO BE ERECTED IN YEAR

Chicago—(AP)—Eight buildings for the 1933 Century of Progress, Chicago's second world fair, will be constructed during the next 12 months at a cost of between $10,000,000 and $51,000,000, Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition, announced today.

They will comprise four major building units.

The electrical group, including a radio building, a communications building and an electrical building embodying a court of light, will rise on the south end of Northerly island, an architectural balance of the Adler planetarium, a permanent structure on the north end.

Three large buildings designed by Paul Cret, Philadelphia architect, will go up south of Soldier field, Chicago's major stadium but, on the main-made land sitting Lake Michigan which will be the site of the fair.

A reproduction of the famous Monjas temple of Uxmal in Yucatan, a project originated by Mr. Daves, and containing anthropological exhibits in a celebrated example of Mayan architecture, will be built off Thirtieth-st. to the south.

The federal government is expected to build an exhibit hall during 1931, around which buildings erected by the individual states will be grouped.

POULTRY BAN BACKED BY ORTHODOX JEWS

Chicago—(AP)—Representatives of 50 orthodox Jewish congregations, who have banned poultry from their tables, today stood back of a resolution refusing to arbitrate with outlaws of officers of the kosher fowl killers.

The Chicago rabbinate declared the ban in order to "stamp out racketeering among the Schochims," or members of the union of kosher fowl killers.

Officers of the Schochims, whose resignations have been demanded by the rabbinate, yesterday suggested the dispute be placed in the hands of Judge Joseph B. David, Max Schulman and Rabbi A. Abrama Ovtch. All but one refused to resign. The rabbis said they would meet only with a committee chosen by the Schochims from among its own membership, none of the officers to be included.

Isaac M. Glicksberg, vice president of the Schochims, resigned yesterday and six other members surrendered their knives in token of their obedience to the rabbinate.

A. Kampolsky, head of the association of kosher butchers, said the ban had cost his organization $40,000 since the first of the week but the butchers would close their shops in support of the rabbinate if necessary.

FINISH EXTENSION OF POWER LINES

Menasha—An extension of the city light and power lines from Racine-st. into the town of Menasha was completed by light department employees Monday. The extension is about 700 feet in length and was authorized at a recent meeting of the common council.

"FOG EYE"

Huntington, N. Y.—Paul H. Mac Neil has perfected an instrument which, it is said, can "see" through fog, and which will be of great aid to airplane pilots. It is somewhat similar to the radio compass, and employs a projector of infra-red rays from a fixed point on land. A unit on the plane picks up these rays, and transforms them into electrical impulses which are recorded.

FIVE PERCENT RISE REPORTED IN LUMBER VALUES DURING 1929

Statistics on Timber Products, Lumber Made Public by Census Bureau

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau).
Washington — An increase of about five per cent in the total value of the output of timber products and lumber throughout the country was recorded in 1929 compared with 1927, according to statistics gathered in the 1930 Census of Manufactures, and made public Wednesday by the Bureau of the Census.

Although the 1929 and 1927 figures are not strictly comparable, since the 1927 canvass was made principally by mail, while in 1929, canvassers visited a number of mills, they are interesting and instructive.

In 1929 the total value amounted to $1,275,812,000 compared with $1,214,045,698 in 1927, a last preceding biennial census year.

The total production of lumber reported for 1929 amounted to 38,424,334,000 feet (board measure) as against 34,142,123,000 feet in 1928 and 34,532,420,000 feet in 1927.

The number of establishments in this industry, which for the purpose of the census includes logging camps, sawmills, lath mills, shingle mills, cooperage-stock mills, veneer mills, and planing and remanufacturing plants, increased in conjunction with sawmills, increased from about 7,510 in 1927 to 12,433 in 1929.

There was a very slight decrease, just 0.6 per cent, in the average number of wage earners employed in the mills and plants of the industry during the two year period, while the wages paid increased by 1.6 per cent. The cost of materials decreased somewhat while the value added by manufacture increased from $720,865,563 in 1927 to $854,162,000 in 1929.

Increases in production were registered by ash, balsam fir, beech, birch, cedar, chestnut, cottonwood, cypress, Douglas fir, elm, hickory, lodgepole pine, maple, oak, red gum, sugar pine, sycamore, walnut, western yellow pine, white fir, yellow pine, and yellow poplar. Decreases were reported for basswood, hemlock, larch, redwood, spruce, tupelo, and white pine.

State Report
Of particular interest to Wisconsin are the following statistics on species of trees important commercially in the Badger State:

White pine, production increased from 1,344,466,000 feet in 1927 to 1,366,938,000 feet in 1928, but sank to 1,355,450,000 feet in 1929.

Hemlock increased from 2,070,312,000 feet in 1927 to 2,221,756,000 feet in 1928, but decreased to 2,075,194,000 feet in 1929.

Maple, decreasing slightly from 774,000,000 feet in 1927 to 742,642,000 feet in 1928, was on the up-grade in 1929, reaching a high total for the three years of 814,289,000 feet.

Birch increased steadily from 356,788,000 feet in 1927 to 397,550,000 feet in 1928 and to 389,844,000 feet in 1929.

Beech decreased from 154,158,000 feet in 1927 to 146,207,000 feet in 1928, but increased to 185,978 feet in 1929.

Basswood decreased steadily, beginning with a production of 145,601,000 feet in 1927, it sank to 140,094,000 feet in 1928, and on down to 128,845,000 feet in 1929.

Hemlock is particularly important in the paper industry. Other paper woods, not necessarily produced in great quantities in Wisconsin, are balsam fir and spruce.

Balsam fir increased from 15,399,000 feet in 1927 to 19,065,000 feet in 1928, then almost doubled itself to reach 37,489,000 feet in 1929. Spruce, on the other hand, decreased in 1929 to 565,590,000 feet after registering 571,510,000 feet in 1928. However, the 1929 total was higher than the 529,467,000 feet produced in 1927.

The report on the lumber census was prepared by the Bureau of the Census in cooperation with the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture.

MODEL ENGINE

London—Despite physical handicap which forced him to hobble around with the aid of a cane, Henry Devin in the past three years has built one of the most complete model trains in the world. It is a working model of an electric railway, and has 300 feet of track on which it operates. A complete signal system regulates the movements of six tiny trains which he has in operation.

ORDER! ORDER!

Cleveland—Just about the time Michael Novak's trial on a charge of violating the liquor laws was well under way, the court was precipitated into a near riot by a loud "BANG" in the room. After the crowd had partially quieted, it was found that a bottle of beer, used as evidence, had exploded. "Order! Order!" shouted the court clerk. But Michael didn't receive one.

Can't Walk, But Father Supports Family As Miner

Kimbloton, O.—For 32 years Homer Shipman has been paralyzed from the waist down, unable to use his legs, because of an accident in a coal mine.

Yet through all of those 32 years he has earned his living as a coal miner, going down into the mine shaft daily and swinging his pick as lustily as a normal man. He has raised a family of six children. He supports himself, his wife and his youngest child today.

But don't get the idea that it has been fun. Shipman, who is now 55, has not stood erect since the accident. When he goes about he has to drag himself along in a sort of crawl. His Christmases, especially, are always dark and cheerless; for he is just able to make both ends meet out of what he earns in the mine.

The mine, a small shaft in a hill side, is his own, situated about a mile from his house. Because that mile is too far to crawl he has a little shack by the entrance to the shaft, and he sleeps there six nights a week. Each morning he crawls into the shaft with his son-in-law, and they do not come out until evening. They get, on an average, 50 bushels of coal a day, for which shipman gets 10 cents a bushel. His expenses run around $2 a day, so that his net income is about $4 a day.

The accident occurred in his own mine, six months after his marriage. A ton of rock fell on him and broke his back. For a time doctors despaired of his life. But he recovered—partially. He has never walked, and he never can. But he has worked, and raised a family, and supported himself.

"We never have any luxuries, and sometimes we hardly have enough to eat," he admits. "I don't know what'll become of them after I'm gone. But there's no use complaining, although I sometimes wonder just why the Lord keeps me alive."

Mrs. Shipman stays at home to care for their 10-year-old son while her husband works.

"Homer works so hard," she says. "He says the pain and misery don't seem so great when he works. I kind of forgets about the things he'll never have. I guess we have enough to eat. But that isn't all in life. Ever since Homer and I were married we never had anything to brighten our lives."

She has not been away from home since the accident.

"I feel that so long as Homer has to work, I must do my share," she says.

So Christmas time, for the Shipmans, is just another day.

Sandino Leader Finds Self "Man Without A Country"

Los Angeles —(AP)—Colonel Augustin P. Marti, the military genius behind the Sandino rebellion in Nicaragua, found himself today in reality "a man without a country."

Colonel Marti arrived here Wednesday from San Salvador, where he was born, and sought permission to remain in the United States. His request was denied by the immigration authorities, who allowed him to disembark from a steamer to await a southbound vessel.

President Boque of San Salvador escorted Colonel Marti to La Libertad two weeks ago and sent him away from his native land with only a third class ticket to Mazatlan, Mexico. Upon his arrival at the Mexican port, Colonel Marti said he was refused permission to land. The soldier of fortune, who is a graduate of the University of San Salvador and an authority on international law, also was denied permission to enter Nicaragua.

Unless there is a change in administrations in San Salvador or a change in the present administration's attitude, Co. Marti said, he might be forced to travel about on ships from port to port without citizenship and a universal outcast.

General Augustino Sandino's uprising in Nicaragua, Colonel Marti declared, in reality was directed by him, Francisco Estrada, a Nicaraguan, Manuel Maria Jiron, a Guatemalan, and Carlos Aponte Hernandez, a Venezuelan, other soldiers of fortune. He said despite reports the Nicaraguan rebel had thousands of men under his banner, there were no more than 300 in his following at one time.

From 1921 to 1923 Colonel Marti served as an officer in the Mexican army under the late General Obregon.

15 YEARS OF PILE MISERY

Then Finds Way to Permanent Freedom from Suffering

Edgar W. Kincaid, 510 E. Wengert St., South Bend, Ind., a locomotive engineer, suffered year after year, with pile pains and discomfort. He was almost frantic in his search for relief at times. Imagine how miserable he must have felt every time he took his seat at the throttle—the hours of discomfort that were his on each run. A seat in a locomotive lurching and pounding at high speed over a hard road-bed made his suffering almost too much to endure.

HUNT NICARAGUAN REBELS WHO KILLED EIGHT U. S. MARINES

gents who are believed to have fled over the frontier into Honduras.

Another detachment of 50 marines, dispatched from Ocotul Wednesday afternoon, engaged in a search of the area around Achuapa for the insurgents.

The ambush represents one of the most serious encounters in which the force of United States marines in Nicaragua has been engaged. Casualties heretofore in most contacts having been principally sustained by the Nicaraguan National guard, which has marine corps officers.

In one of 11 skirmishes reported with the insurgents in Nicaragua during last November a national guard outpost at Matiguas was attacked with a loss of five members of the garrison.

There are at present about 1,000 marines in Nicaragua.

Sandino in Charge?

General Augustino Sandino was reported in a Mexico City dispatch of Nov. 13, to have recovered from wounds received in a battle with marines of Nicaraguan constabulary a few weeks before and to have resumed charge of his followers in northern Nicaragua. The same dispatch said that two sons of Pedro Altamirano, his principal aide, had been killed in an encounter with marines.

Sandino is a former Nicaraguan liberal whose activities as an insurgent began in the middle of 1927 with elevation of Adolfo Diaz, conservative, to the presidency. After the armistice which officially ended the fighting between the discontented liberal element and his followers remained in arms and offered considerable opposition to United States marines who had been placed in the country to supervise a general election.

Early in 1929 he went into Mexico, living at Merida, Yucatan, for several months, finally returning to Nicaragua to resume his warfare against the marines. He was said to have received leg wounds in a battle last summer in northern Nicaragua.

In a pronouncement in 1927 Frank B. Kellogg, then secretary of state, called him an "outlaw." His military operations have sometimes had a strong guerrilla flavor although his "anti-imperialistic" pronouncements aimed at the Washington government won him considerable sympathy in sections of Spanish America.

Thomas-Ernie Kratchovil Fight Postponed Indefinitely

WINDY ILL IN HOSPITAL WITH APPENDICITIS

New Opponent Being Sought for Thompson; Cotter to Meet Adolph Ebel

BECAUSE Winston "Windy" Thomas of New London is down for the count from Kid Appendicitis who hung a K. O. on him Wednesday and put him down so long that it will be months before he again climbs into the ring, promoters of Oney Johnston post's amateur fight card are scurrying around seeking other talent for the Jan. 8 program scheduled at Armory G.

However, Thomas' illness isn't so unfortunate after all for Ernie Kratchovil, his opponent for next Thursday took a trimming from Augie Stuber over at Sheboygan yesterday afternoon with the result his drawing power wasn't enhanced any.

Another change for Thursday's card has been made. For some reason not stated Jake Mickoski will not meet Herbie Thompson, another of New London's favorite sons, in the semi-windup. Another opponent is being sought for Herbie and in view of his victory over Joe Jordan at Green Bay Thursday, he should be given a shot at some first starter.

The Harold Cotter-Adolph Ebel fight still is on the books and probably will be one of the feature attractions when Thursday comes around. Cotter came from Kaukauna where he has a big following. He has beaten some clever chaps in the last couple years and believes he can take Ebel. Cotter also has hopes of getting a crack at Hans Ahl, Oshkosh fighter, and will start a series of bouts leading up to a shot at the Sawdust city youth.

Another heavyweight bout is being considered for Thursday's card. Plans are to pit "Ray" Schuler, Kaukauna, a former American legion football player over at the Electric City, against Andy Stachowicz, Menasha, who tips the beam at about 190 pounds.

Two Appleton boxers also will get a chance next week. They are Art West who won his first fight with a K. O. and Ray Murphy. They will not meet each other, however, and their opponents have not been picked.

Although the first plans for Thursday's show have been known, a cocked hat, legion promoters ask the fans to string with them a few days or until the card can be arranged. There are plenty of good amateur attractions around the state and the vets will spare no expense to keep the bouts here on just as high a plane as possible.

AHL KNOCKED OUT BY MILWAUKEE FIGHTER

Sheboygan — Frankie Knauer of Milwaukee knocked out Hans Ahl of Oshkosh with a right under the heart in the first round of the windup of the "Baggies" amateur card here Thursday afternoon. The end came after two minutes of fighting.

Augie Stuber, Sheboygan, shaded Ernie Kratchovil, Racine, in three rounds. Julius Cohn of Milwaukee beat Harold Floyd, Racine. Joey Kratchovila, Racine, beat Eddie McCoy, Milwaukee, in four rounds.

Luke Ebel, Two Rivers, beat John Draeger, Milwaukee. Ralph Miner-ville, Milwaukee, beat Otto Margraff, Sheboygan.

U. W. Cagers Strong On Defense, Weak On Offense

BY STANLEY KALISH

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

MADISON — (AP) — Although the present pre-Western Conference series was the most disastrous one since 1926 from the standpoint of games won and lost, the University of Wisconsin basketball team stands ready to open its Big Ten play Monday at Illinois with the knowledge that it is a powerful team defensively.

The Badgers scored victories over Carroll college, Pennsylvania and Missouri, but dropped a hectic 16 to 14 game to Coach "Bill" Chandler's

TAIT LITTMAN K. O. S. COURTNEY

Tulsa Welterweight Goes Down for Count in the Fourth Round

Milwaukee — (AP) — Tait Littman, Milwaukee's present favorite son in the boxing world, today had another scalp at his belt.

The blond boxing terror from Cudahy yesterday flattened George Courtney, Tulsa Okla. — wielder of terrific jabs — in four rounds.

It was a furious, if short, battle. Before six thousand fans at the Auditorium, Tait started the scheduled 10 round fight with a bang. In the initial round, he clipped Courtney on the jaw and the westerner went down for a four-count. A few seconds later, Littman connected with Courtney's head and again Courtney was down. He got up at nine as the bell ended the stanza.

In the second Courtney took Littman's range with a body jab and Littman hit the canvass. From then on until the fourth round, both fighters boxed carefully, each attempting to get the other's weak spot.

Littman's gloves staccatoed over Courtney's heart in the fourth. The punishment began to tell and a sudden six-inch right to the jaw sent Courtney dazed to the floor. He was still in a daze as he was taken from the ring.

Courtney weighed 165, and Littman, 168.
Harry Dubinsky, Chicago, 134, had little difficulty in outpointing the New Rochelle, N. Y. Negro, Bruce Flowers, 185, in 10 rounds in the other feature event on the double windup card.

INDIANA QUINTET BEATS PITTSBURG

Purdue Has Little Trouble Beating Temple; Illini Humbles Bradley

Chicago — (AP) — The Big Ten conference continued its basketball comeback in the inter-sectional free-for-all of practice games by taking three decisions last night, one of them from one of the best teams in the east.

Greatest honors went to Indiana in its 27 to 19 victory over Pittsburgh on the Panthers' own floor.

The Hoosiers, undefeated so far this season, had defeated Pennsylvania in Philadelphia the preceding night.

Purdue, champion of the Western conference and a recent loser to Pitt, had no difficulty in defeating Temple university last night, 45 to 17.

The Philadelphians dedicated their new gymnasium with the game.

Illinois, a title threat in the conference this year, barely whipped Little Bradley college in Peoria, Ill., 18 to 17.

Meyer of Bradley missed a free throw which would have tied the score in the last 30 seconds.

Cornell University, invading the Buckeye state, defeated Ohio University in Athens last night, 38 to 33, after losing to Ohio State University Wednesday.

Brigham Young University of Provo, Utah, lost to Wisconsin college in Springfield, O., 49 to 38.

CRIMSON TIDE BEATS COUGARS AT ROSE BOWL

Three Brilliant Plays in First Half Give Southerners 24-0 Win

ASADENA, CALIF. — (AP) — Southern football stood at a new high water mark today, swept there by Alabama's tidal wave which yesterday swamped Washington State 24 to 0.

One large quarter, featured by three brilliant plays, and the Crimson Tide surged to a record of two victories and a tie for the last six years of the Rose tournament fiesta's 16 year old classic.

The triumph left the South with three wins and no defeats, while in the previous ten years the East and Midwest managed to pull out with one victory apiece against Pacific coast opponents.

The scoring started in the second period with a reverse which pulled Jimmy Moore from end. He fumbled deep into his own territory with the ball, and heaved a long pass to John "Flash" Suther. No one was present to challenge the "Bama halfback's" jaunt across the goal.

70,000 Aftend Game
As startled as the 70,000 who braved the drizzling rain were, their surprise was augmented a few minutes later when Moore duplicated the toss to Ben Smith his fellow end for a 30-yard gain which put the ball on the 1-yard line. An intercepted pass had put the Tide in a strategic position, Smith leaping high over two defenders' heads to nab the oval. John Campbell scored in one plunge.

Campbell's quarterback play was spectacular. He connected the scoring plunge the fourth time he took the ball after the second touchdown by sitting through right tackle, to sweep unscathed down the sidelines on a 42-yard touchdown canter. For the third time, his goal from placement was perfectly executed.

Coach Orin "Babe" Hollingbery's forces rallied with the third quarter but even then, "Babe" Whitworth was able to add three more points by kicking a field goal from placement after the Tide had been stemmed on the 25-yard line.

Cougars Threaten
Fighting a losing game to the end, the Cougars launched a belated passing attack in the dying moments with George Sander, sophomore halfback, on the throwing end of three successive tosses which took the ball to the 43-yard line. Captain Elmer Schwartz was stopped for no gain on the first play, but on the second he reached the 27-yard line, only to fumble. Freddie Singleton, the reliable All-American "Bama tackle pounced on the ball to terminate the drive.

A few minutes later the final gain barked.
Brains, brawn, deception; Alabama was superior in all these. That the Cougars put a valiant fight was the factor which took the edge off defeat.

From Goat To Home Run Champ, That's Wilson

BY JOHN B. FOSTER

Copyright 1931

NEW YORK — (CFA) — It is a march of glorious achievement to have advanced from the batter who tried to sacrifice in world series of 1924 for the Giants and was struck out by Walter Johnson, of the Washington team, to the home run champion of the National league in 1930 and its tenth best batter, reckoning batters by the minimum total of 100 games for the season.

That is Hack Wilson's record. It is little wonder that the Giants rue the blunder that lost him to that team.

In the twelfth inning of that memorable game in Washington, with both teams fighting desperately to win Emil Meusel began by hitting safely to right field. The next batter was Wilson. He was up to sacrifice and showed it plainly. Johnson swung his arm with all the speed at his command and Wilson struck once and twice without avail. It was no longer a moment in the game when he could try to hunt again and he let go once more at a high, fast one and retired crestfallen to the bench. Meusel had not been advanced from first and there was one out. How the stands roared, because Wilson had been thought to be a dangerous batter. Jackson forced Meusel at second and Gowdy swung with his martial might and lifted a long fly to left field, the last batter for the Giants in the world series in 1924. In the Washington half of the inning, that team triumphed over New York when two ground balls, skipped by the head of Lindstrom at third.

In 1925, Wilson played again with the Giants. He went through 62 games with them and was sent to Toledo. He played 55 games with Toledo and then somebody blundered. He was not recalled and Chicago drafted him. Imagine getting a home run champion in the draft; a man with major experience too.

From the time that Chicago obtained him, he became a better and better player. He is of the type of player who makes a hit with the crowd. If he is booed one moment he is cheered the next. The fan boos often when he hasn't the faintest idea why he boos. He simply pops off.

Usually it is the better player who gets the boos.

No ordinary player can attract that much attention. When Wilson played in New York with Chicago he was booed. The New York fans, not knowing that he had been lost to the Giants by a clerical error, thought Hack had deserted them. They loved him despite their boos and when he batted a home run they cheered.

Wilson has not yet climbed to the top in skill as a batsman. He has not led his league in batting. This year he was about 40 points away from it but he was better than he was in 1929. Playing with Chicago, he has batted .321 in 1929, .318 in 1927, .313 in 1928, .345 in 1929 and .356 in 1930. The general tendency is upward. If he can out bat Terry, Klein, Herman, O'Doul, Paul Waner, Lindstrom, Watkins, Stephenson and Traynor in 1931 he will be close to the batting championship.

So far as Rockne knows, there will be no banquets for him until Jan. 15 when letters will be awarded to Notre Dame football players. After that, he intends to take a long rest, either in California or Florida.

SOUTHWEST GRID TEAM WINS FROM MID-WEST SQUAD

Buddy Hackman, Tennessee Quarterback, Is Hero of Annual Game

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, TEXAS — (AP) — One of the finest football machines the southwest ever saw was being disassembled today and its parts strewn from here to Florida, its purpose having been achieved in two brief, thrill-cramped hours yesterday.

For individual brilliance and all round efficiency, it is doubtful this section ever will see a greater team than the Southwest eleven that trampled the Mid-West all-stars, 18 to 0, in the third annual classic.

The defeated forces of Coach Bob Zuppke and the southwest eleven helped create a large fund for the Scottish Rite hospital for crippled children here. Officials expressed doubt the net would be as high as a year ago $10,000, but it promised to approach that figure.

Coach Morley Jennings of Baylor university, who assembled the Southwest squad and whipped it into a great offensive and defensive unit won widespread praise.

Zuppke's vehicle lacked both the individual stars and the team work of the Southwest. Leo Jensvold, driving halfback from Iowa, was almost the entire Mid-West offense, his passes and fierce plunges accounting for virtually all of his team's gains. He made one 43-yard gully.

Only once did a Mid-West score seem imminent.

The individual hero was Buddy Hackman from the University of Tennessee. He was the main spring of the winners' attack, scoring two touchdowns, one of them on a brilliant 49-yard run, and throwing the pass that paved the way for a third score.

Louis Long, Southern Methodist, ran 40 yards to the Midwest's one-foot line after taking a short pass from Hackman in the first quarter. Hackman drove across for a touchdown. The play that led to the Southwest's second score was a triple pass. Brown to Hackman to Peterson, Texas end, who grabbed the ball from two interferers on the three-yard line. Bethea, the Florida star, took it across.

Hackman's twisting run for the final touchdown was one to delight any football crowd. Starting from about the 50-yard line after failing to spot a pass receiver, the Tennessee Rambler reversed the field, cut to the side line and wormed his way past a half dozen tacklers to reach the goal.

TRADE VOLUME ON INCREASE; PROFITS DOWN

Statistics Are Revealed on Wisconsin Corporation Incomes Up to 1928

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—While Wisconsin corporations did the biggest gross business of their history in 1928, the profits of the profitable corporations began to decline in 1927 and the deficits of the unprofitable corporations began to increase in 1928, which showed the biggest aggregate deficit with the exception of 1921, the year of the last economic depression.

These facts are revealed by detailed statistics on Wisconsin corporation incomes up to 1928, just made public by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Treasury department. The 1928 and 1930 income statistics are not yet analyzed and made public. Corporations engaged in manufacturing metals and metal products did the biggest gross business in Wisconsin in 1928, with the sole exception of the corporations engaged in trade, and the metals corporations had the largest net income, while the profitable corporations in this industry also showed the largest aggregate loss. The metals corporations did a gross business of $838,932,890, with the profitable corporations making a net profit of $17,445,694 and the unprofitable corporations in this industry showing a deficit of $7,785,585.

Every branch of corporate industry in Wisconsin made a profit, when considered as a whole, except the corporations engaged in mining and quarrying and in manufacturing rubber, which showed a net deficit.

During that year, 15,393 Wisconsin corporations filed federal income and profits returns, of which 8,328 corporations reported a net income, making only 57.3 per cent of these corporations making profits during the year. They had a gross income of $2,347,120,782, and their deductions amounted to $2,162,551,428, their net income amounting to $184,569,354. They reported losses for a prior year amounting to $3,714,922, and they paid taxes amounting to $20,132,264. The 4,681 Wisconsin corporations reporting no net income, 30.41 per cent of those filing returns, had gross incomes aggregating $408,788,337, with deductions amounting to $454,743,438, or a deficit of $45,955,101. The other 1,884 corporations or 12.24 per cent, were inactive in 1928.

Wisconsin corporations which made money that year paid out $101,028,473 in cash dividends and $2,244,905 in stock dividends, while those reporting no net income paid out $2,745,908 in cash dividends and $22,167 in stock dividends.

Wisconsin corporations were divided as follows according to the nature of their business: 400 in agriculture and related industries, of which 127 reported net incomes aggregating $1,900,434 and gross incomes aggregating $8,061,140, and paying $90,282 in income taxes; and of which 193 reported deficits aggregating $1,104,507, with 65 such corporations inactive.

214 in mining and quarrying, of which 57 reported net incomes aggregating $386,433, with gross incomes of $4,686,808, paying taxes of $30,627; 44 reported deficits aggregating $464,451, and 66 were inactive.

188 in manufacturing food products, beverages, and tobacco, of which 736 reported net incomes aggregating $9,040,206, with gross incomes of $250,103,004, paying $913,497 in taxes; 395 reported deficits aggregating $3,015,602; and 57 were inactive.

237 in manufacturing textiles and textile products, of which 127 reported net incomes aggregating $3,566,426 with gross incomes aggregating $30,617,267, paying $398,450 in taxes; 100 reported deficits aggregating $1,515,731; and ten were inactive.

115 in manufacturing leather and leather products, of which 71 reported net incomes aggregating $3,174,391, with gross incomes aggregating $24,629,093, paying $365,496 in taxes; 43 reported deficits aggregating $2,938,656; and one was inactive.

15 in rubber and related products, of which 10 reported net incomes aggregating $1,176,696, with gross incomes of $19,409,502, paying $138,111 in taxes; 5 reported deficits aggregating $2,481,383;

350 in lumber and wood products, of which 181 reported net incomes aggregating $1,093,232, with gross incomes of $19,175,780, paying $78,642 in taxes; 129 reported deficits aggregating $2,894,021; and 16 were inactive;

Wisconsin Boy Amazes Mother

"Robert's stomach was often upset and he suffered a lot from colds," says Mrs. M. Benkowski, 36 Thirty-Fourth Street, Milwaukee. "He was feverish and his breath was bad. I found he was constipated."

"A friend advised me to give Robert some California Fig Syrup. It surely surprised me to see how quickly it stopped his feverishness, cleared his breath and tongue, regulated his bowels; made him a strong and energetic boy again."

The quick, safe way to cleanse and regulate the bowels of bilious, headachy, constipated children is with California Fig Syrup. Give it at the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness or feverishness. Every child loves its rich, fruity flavor and it acts without griping or discomfort. Appetite is increased by its use; digestion is assisted; weak stomach and bowels are given tone and strength.

For fifty years, doctors have endorsed this pure vegetable product. The genuine is always marked by the word California. Look for that when buying or you may get an imitation.

Anticipate Banner Year For Farmers During 1931

BY CHARLES L. HILL

Commissioner of Agriculture

Madison—(P)—Each new year brings new plans, new conceptions of life and duty, and new opportunities. Nineteen hundred and thirty-one will be no exception. In many respects 1930 has been the most difficult year that agriculture has faced in a generation. At that, Wisconsin has been among the most fortunate states of the Union, because we were very little affected by the drought that continued all through the summer.

We had a good grain crop, a good corn crop and a good hay crop, in fact everything was about up to normal, except the potato crop and that was injured by drought. Prices of farm products have been low and business conditions have been very much upset. At that we knew very little about real hardships in America.

Too often we are looking for our blessing from outside, while our really greatest blessing must come from our hearts within. For several

STATE COMMITTEE TO SEEK CENTRAL EDUCATION BOARD

Interim Group Anxious to See Entire Present System
Junked in 1931

Madison—(P)—Junking of the entire present system of educational administration in Wisconsin in favor of a central board of education will be requested of the 1931 legislature by the interim committee on education, Sen. E. J. Roethlis, chairman, announced here today.

The proposal involves a change in administration that rivals in magnitude any hitherto proposed in the annals of education, in the opinion of the committee. A score of educational agencies now operating independently on the various phases of education will be wiped out if the proposal is accepted.

In one sentence the committee summed up the necessity for a drastic change in the state's educational system:

"Whether we like it or not, we are in a machine age, and we must remold our educational system to meet the demands of modern conditions."

In the tentative report on the proposal, the committee waged bitter criticism against the present decentralized system of educational administration. Probably no other state in the country has as decentralized a system of education as Wisconsin, in the opinion of the committee.

"Every major and most of the minor educational activities have been honored either with an independent board or an independent commission," the committee's report said. There are eight major and over 20 minor boards and commissions. Each one goes its merry way with little thought or consideration of the other. In a sense they are all educational prima donnas, fighting for their own departments irrespective of any general program.

"The group with greatest political influence and able to make the most noise will naturally obtain the largest share of the budget pie regardless of their actual needs. Is there any wonder that legislators are perplexed and citizens bewildered every two years when these groups present their various programs and requests for additional appropriations. Under such a system Wisconsin can never obtain a co-ordinated all inclusive educational program."

Includes 15 Regents

Under the committee's plans, the state board of education would be composed of 15 regents, appointed at large for six-year terms, subject to confirmation of the senate. Two members would be farmers, two would represent labor and two would represent manufacturers. The governor would not be restricted in other appointments.

"The board is to appoint a commissioner of education, fix his salary and tenure of office," the committee's report said. "The board will determine all educational policies and the commissioner and his staff are to be given full responsibility for administration. All existing boards, departments and commissions having to do with the university, teacher colleges, Stout institute, school of mines (Platteville), vocational education, historical library, free libraries and public instruction are to be abolished. The board of control is to relinquish all authority over the school for deaf and the school for blind as these two institutions are to be placed under the proposed state board."

The committee listed 10 points which make the creation of a state board of education desirable as well as feasible. They are:

1. Places full responsibility for all educational work in a single board.
2. Centralizes and unifies control of matter common to all educational activities, thus replacing a thirty-year educational circus with one.
3. Provides a method for obtaining a complete unified coordinated educational program for the entire state.
4. Furnishes in the office of commissioner of education the talent, vision, power and leadership that will bring about concerted action and supervision throughout the entire educational field.
5. Duplications, waste and lost motion can be eliminated, thus making the educational tax dollar go further, resulting in greater confidence on the part of citizens in the educational system.
6. Puts an end to the log-rolling and lobbying with the legislature in the interest of one or the other educational institutions. Will prevent one institution from obtaining too large a share of the funds available thus crippling other essential parts of an educational system. In other words, a balanced growth is possible.

One Information Source

7. Provides a single source of information for legislators; also an advance review of appropriations demanded, resulting in a thorough and financial plan for all educational activities, and the elimination of excessive disproportionate appropriations.

8. Insures a budget more in line with the ability of the state to finance same.

9. Makes the need of common schools the starting point for considering state support for all educational activities.

10. Minimizes the evils of rivalry among the various educational institutions.

The committee said it would ask the legislature to take immediate steps toward eliminating from the state constitution the provision that the superintendent of public instruction must be elected by the people. During the six years necessary for such a constitutional change, the superintendent would serve as a member of the state board.

The election of a superintendent "violates the cardinal principles of good government and good management," the committee said. The election method "rarely obtains skilled men for administrative work," the committee added.

"Americans have developed a peculiar complex about electing administrative officials," the report said. "While many believe that democracy requires the election of a host of officials yet experience has convinced them that competent executives are rarely produced by this method. As a result they may continue to elect these officials but they have definitely set out to curb their powers."

The appointment of a commissioner of education, in the opinion of the committee, would take the position from the sphere of politics and would permit the state to secure the services of nationally famed, non-resident, educators. It would also insure the appointment of technical and professional assistants and would guarantee longer tenure of office to all administrative officials.

Appointment, rather than election, would also give continuity to an educational program and encourage the payment of salaries that will attract outstanding men, the report said.

"A single board with full authority, competent staff and sufficient time can bring Wisconsin to the forefront in the educational world," the report concluded. "Otherwise we will continue our aimless, drifting, inefficient and wasteful course."

Make "Tame" Lightning In Search For Safety

Croton Dam, Mich. —(P)—Ten thousand strokes of lightning—artificial but nonetheless powerful—have hit a 40-mile stretch of power line near here.

This number is one season's work, recently completed, which is being card-indexed for use in determining better methods of protection against wild lightning.

The "tame" lightning overcomes the one greatest difficulty in guarding against "wild" lightning—the lack of opportunity to study the bolts because the wild stuff strikes so rarely where it is wanted.

On the 40-mile stretch near here engineers would consider themselves lucky if they obtained three or four wild lightning hits in a summer.

The studies are conducted jointly by the General Electric company and the Michigan Consumers Power company, the latter supplying experimental power lines and the former a portable lightning generator.

This apparatus was moved by truck along the line and made to shoot a million and a half volt stroke wherever wanted.

The effects were measured with a split-tuning device using units so brief that they may be compared to one second as the latter compares to 12 days.

The A & P is sending Henry to College!

That's the way his mother puts it. Really, though, we are doing no such thing. We're establishing no foundations, no fellowships, no scholarships. We're just plodding along—simple grocers—doing our best—selling housewives their taploca and Bermuda onions, their maraschino cherries and Idaho potatoes, their chili sauce and their porterhouse steaks—generally for less money than they pay elsewhere. (Sometimes a little less—oftener a good bit less.) Henry's mother's bill averaged $72 a month before she started trading with the A & P. Since then it's been $60 a month—and the food, she'll have you know, is better! That $12 a month over the years runs into real money.

WILD BEAUTY

by MATEEL HOWE FARNHAM

SYNOPSIS: David Frost's mother is furious when he marries Fanny Freiburg, whom she considers unworthy to join the proud Frost-Brownbeck clan. David gets a new job and takes Fanny to a home of their own in order to make life happier for her. But circumstances and his mother's influence eventually force him to return to his uncle's bank and bring his wife back to the ancestral home. There Fanny is made continuously unhappy by her mother-in-law. Then Juliette, a distant Frost relative married to an Italian prince comes to a home of their own in Washington. She was happier tonight without David.

No popular debutante ever had such a rush as Fanny. It was not her beauty—many in Washington were more beautiful—but rather her joyous enthusiasm, her delicate personal perception, her radiant pleasure in all that was done for her that made her so quickly popular. "I did not know that a beautiful woman could be so unspoiled," a white-haired old gentleman said to her.

"I shan't be unspoiled long if you pay me such pretty compliments," said Fanny shyly, looking up at him and then quickly dropping her eyes. "Why do you give so much time to your elderly cavaliers?" asked Juliette.

"Oh, I don't know—perhaps because I was always hungry when I was little for my father-to-love me—and he didn't. Anyway, I like nice old gentlemen. They are so pleased, the sweet old dears, when they find I really do like them."

A major general, who certainly never thought of himself as elderly, laughed her to ride. A bachelor ambassador gave a Venetian fete in her honor that was the high point of the season. A famous senator, who had lost his wife not so long before, gave her a breakfast, and she was free to be as married, he said. Others told her the same.

A good many men tried to make love to her; and Fanny scolded them, or laughed at them gently and once or twice was so genuinely distressed at a hint of real feeling that a certain very young under secretary was moved to tears of regret for his scarlet past; and a certain blonde attaché with tired, burnt-out eyes told her she would remain a white memory as long as he lived.

"I had almost forgotten," the man said, "that women, young women could be simple and natural and sweet. You are so incredibly sweet, my white one. Will you do me one favor, one last favor?"

"Of course I will," said Fanny. "Will you let me draw the curtain—no one will see us—and stand here with me in the dark, your hand in mine, and watch the moon rise? There is a light already on the edge of the world. It will mean nothing to you—a great deal to me."

Fanny nodded. She drew the curtain close, and for a little longer than five minutes they stood silently hand in hand, watching a frightened Chinese lantern climb up by inch over a bend in the Potomac and turn the black waters to rippling silver.

"The path to the moon—see, my sweet, there is still a path to the moon!" The hand that held Fanny's tightened; and then he bent low and kissed her hand, drew the curtain and took her back to the supper room.

Tomorrow a fortune is laid at Fanny's feet. Will it shake her loyalty to David?

A REAL "ARMY" OF TELEPHONE GIRLS

London — "Telephone operators—halt! Stand at—switch. 'Shun! Slope—plus! Old guard, one pace to the right; new guard one pace to the right. 'Shun. Fix plugs! Old dis—miss."

That's the military routine which telephone operators go through in the Yorkshire telephone exchange. Under the sergeant-major-like gaze of a supervisor, telephone girls march with soldierly precision. Before they open the door to go to their boards, their headsets must be out and ready. Their left arm bent in the fashion of an infantryman carrying a rifle—except that all they carry is a plug.

BADGER SCHOOL FUND INCOME IS OVER 6 MILLION

Total to Counties is $5,809,007—Outagamie to Receive $83,242

Madison.—(P)—The school fund income for this year yielded $6,486,074.79 of which $5,809,007.48 will be distributed to counties. John Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction, announced here.

The last appropriation was $5,701,582.50 although the income totaled $6,573,547.66. This year $677,067.31 will go for salaries and expenses of supervising teachers and other incidentals, the state superintendent reported.

Under the equalization law, a mill tax of 1.1 is levied on the taxable property of the state for the public school fund income. The income is apportioned on the equalization basis or on a flat rate basis. Under the latter plan, the state apportions $250 for each elementary teacher to which the county adds a similar amount. Districts with a valuation of more than $250,000 for each elementary teacher receive $500 from the state and county.

Additional aid goes to districts with a valuation of less than $250,000 for each elementary teacher. The limit of state aid to any county, regardless of its real valuation, is $600 per elementary teacher.

The amounts apportioned to counties under the public school fund income are as follows:

Movie Technicians Have Own Lingo—Here's Proof

Hollywood, Calif.—(P)—"The baby is lost but doesn't want mother, and apples and dollies alike are subjects of indifference to it."

You probably won't hear any movie technicians uttering a sentence like that, but if you linger around a busy talkie set in a studio here you'll certainly hear exclamations quite as puzzling—all now officially sanctioned by the dignified Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, through its technical bureau which today issued a "selected glossary for the motion picture technician."

The sentence given above, by the way, if utter nonsense, is still fundamentally true.

For the glossary reveals "baby" as a "small spotlight, or an incandescent;" "lost" is colloquial for "not functioning;" and "mother" is the impression of the sound record matrix obtained by photographing "Apple" is colloquial for audio-frequency vacuum tube, and a "dolly" is any small rolling platform—often used to permit the camera easily to approach or recede from a scene being photographed.

The new compilation is complete with its list of technical terms such as "aeolight" "H and D curve" and "potentiometer"—we won't go into those—but includes also "the picture."

MYTH ABOUT AL CAPONE FALSE, RECORDS SHOW
Chicago.—(P)—One of the many myths concerning Chicago's notorious gang leader, "Scarface Al" Capone, vanished into thin air Friday. The story had been widely circulated that the scar on Capone's cheek, the scar that gave him the nickname, was made by a shrapnel fragment in the World war as he rushed to the head of his company to assume the place of a fallen leader.
From the musty court records of several years ago, the gangster's one statement was recovered today to refute the story. He said at that time that he was registered for the draft in Brooklyn and that he was notified to appear a short time before the armistice was signed. When the war ended, the call was cancelled and he never served in the army.

WORLD'S LARGEST TELESCOPE AWAITS FAMOUS SCIENTIST

Einstein to Check Noted Theories at California Observatory

BY DAN THOMAS

Pasadena, Calif. — Mount Wilson, rising 5700 feet above sea level, surrounded by a bluish-clear and almost perfectly cloudless atmosphere all year round, is prepared to greet Prof. Albert Einstein with what is generally acknowledged to be the greatest collection of astronomical instruments in the world, when he arrives here to continue his researches into the mysteries of the universe.

Six telescopes, ranging in size from a six-inch refracting type to the 60 and 100-inch reflecting telescopes, are operated daily and nightly by the double shift of astronomers at the famous observatory of the Carnegie Institution. They peer into the heavens to learn the mysteries of the sun, the moon, the planets and stars.

The marvel of the collection is the great 100-inch reflector, a type of telescope with a huge concave mirror at the bottom, measuring 100 inches in diameter. This mirror collects the light of distant stars and brings them to a sharp focus. It is so powerful that astronomers have been able to detect stars 840 million million miles away. There is nothing within average earthly measurements to give one any idea of what this great distance is. But this at least can be said—that the light from a star so far away would take 140 million years to travel to the earth. And eight trillion 150,000 miles in one second.

Can See Half Billion Stars

This huge telescope is so powerful that it gathers in 250,000 times as much light as can the human eye. Through it astronomers have been able to bring half a billion stars within visual range. That's about 100,000 times as many as one can see with the unaided eye on a bright night.

At the focal point of this huge telescope, near the top, there is a highly sensitive heat-measuring instrument called a thermocouple. This electric thermometer will measure the heat of a candle flame 100 miles away.

A star of what astronomers term the 13th magnitude is 631 times fainter than the faintest star that can be seen with the unaided eye. Yet this delicate instrument has placed such a star's heat and measured its heat on earth at one-half of one-millionth of a degree, Fahrenheit.

Check Einstein's Theories

It has been through the use of these instruments, although largely through the 100-inch telescope, that such men as Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of the Mount Wilson observatory, Dr. Edwin H.ubble and Dr. F. G. Pease have been able to peer into the vastness of space and determine the distances of the stars. It is in this work of determining the limits of the universe outlined by Einstein.

Dr. Einstein will be able to study the thousands of stellar photographs in the observatory library, besides taking a squint through the eyepieces of the various telescopes. He will also have the opportunity of working with Professor Albert A. Michelson, one of the world's greatest physicists, who is trying to determine the speed of light.

Dr. Michelson has had built a mile-long pipe line from which the air is almost entirely drawn to create a partial vacuum, and through which he is sending thin shafts of light to a revolving drum with eight mirrors. By noting the time this light takes for a beam of light to travel a mile, he can calculate the speed of light.

Simple though it sounds, this is a highly delicate and exacting operation and requires repetition hundreds, and even thousands of times, in order to strike an average.

It is in this work of determining the limits of the universe that Dr. Einstein will be most interested. For Einstein has made his calculations he has made in determining his theories of relativity.

Will Visit Institute

Professor Einstein's host at Pasadena, which is only 15 miles from Mount Wilson, will be Professor Robert A. Millikan, director of the Norman Bridge Laboratory of the California Institute of Technology. Dr. Millikan is one of the world's best known scientists and has received many honors for his discovery of the electron, of particles of matter, and recipient of such high honors as the Nobel prize in physics.

IMPROVEMENT IN STATE BUSINESS SEEN THIS YEAR

1930 Christmas Business Was in Excess of Production

BY GEORGE F. KULL

Madison, (7)—Information filtering into the office of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association from practically all of the many industrial classifications in Wisconsin indicates a very definite trend toward improvement in business.

Current reports indicate the 1930 Christmas business, while perhaps not quite up to the volume of some previous prosperous years, seems to have been in excess of production. Increased buying volume coupled with curtailed production has resulted in an appreciable lowering of inventories which for months past have been below customary standards. That buying for retail sale must begin in earnest in the very near future is a logical deduction.

While 1930 has been a bad year for business, there have been with in the memory of all adult citizens quite a number of years when business conditions and unemployment have been worse. We have in our office a chart picturing very vividly that the worst of the statement. Our graph, which shows employment conditions in the leading metal trades industries in the state compared with the nation's pig iron production, runs back to 1906. This graph shows that during its life of 24 years, there have been six periods of greater unemployment than in 1930, and likewise six periods of less production.

While the aggregate of new business to be created as a result of recent federal appropriations for public work is so commensurate with the grand total of the nation's business that makes employment, nevertheless it is inconceivable that almost a billion dollars can be released for such work without its having a material effect upon business generally.

Add to what the federal government and hundreds of local units of government are doing by way of public work, the undeniable need of thousands of merchants replenishing their stock of a Christmas season following a period of curtailed buying and limited inventories, and you have, in my judgment, a condition that can be described as the first step in the revival of business that should provide another long period of prosperity, a period which in the judgment of many business leaders will transcend in prosperity any of the nation's experiences during our industrial history.

LEAGUE PLANS FEED STATIONS FOR PHEASANTS

Grain Will Be Purchased by Sportsmen and Fed to Birds

Kaukauna—Plans are being made by the Isaac Walton league to establish six or seven feeding stations for pheasants in the game preserve northwest of the city. Up to the present time it has not been necessary to feed the birds because there has been little snow.

Grain and feed will be purchased by the league. Officers are requesting sportsmen to give a small sum of money to help pay for the feed. Donations of 50 and 75 cents from a number of sportsmen would easily purchase enough feed for the pheasants for the rest of the winter.

There are hundreds of pheasants on the preserve and they can be seen in large flocks at any time. The preserve was created through the efforts of the local Isaac Walton league several years ago and shipments of pheasants have been planted there from time to time.

The birds feed on seeds and weeds during the summer and fall, but sometimes find difficulty in finding food where there is much snow. They were fed last winter and the same plans are being carried out to feed them this winter. The pheasants readily find the feeding stations and go to them whenever they want food.

The preserve has been marked off and signs have been put about asking hunters not to disturb the birds.

NEW YEARS USHERED IN QUIETLY IN CITY

Kaukauna—New Year's Day was ushered in here quietly. No arrests were made. There were no public celebrations and no accidents in the city, according to Chief of Police R. H. McCarty. Only eight transients were lodged in the city jail on New Year's eve and night.

PLAN MORE LETTERS IN SEAL SALE DRIVE

Kaukauna—Follow up letters will be sent out by the committee in charge of the annual Christmas seal sale recently completed in Kaukauna, according to Mrs. Olin G. Dryer, drive chairman. Most of the returns are in, but there are still some to be collected. The committee urges that those who have not sent in their returns for the seals they received to do so immediately, so that added expense will not be incurred by sending out extra letters.

The follow up letters will be mailed next week, Mrs. Dryer said. The seal sale is conducted here each year by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association under auspices of the Kaukauna Woman's club. Half the returns are used for local health purposes and the rest is for state use. Health programs and clinics are held during the year by the association with the seal proceeds.

CONDUCT SERVICES FOR FORMER HOLDER OF SHOOTING TITLE

Kaukauna—August H. Hilgenberg, 78, aged Kaukauna sportsman, who died late Monday night, at one time broke the world's trapshooting record by a freak accident. Mr. Hilgenberg, who was a charter member of the Kaukauna Gun club, was participating in one of the official shoots of the club at the local shooting grounds in the year 1901. He was shooting in the singles event of 25 birds. By an accident the trap put out two birds at the same time. Instead of shooting at only one of the birds, Mr. Hilgenberg shot at the two birds crossed breaking both of them. He got of score of 26 birds with 25 shots.

Funeral services for Mr. Hilgenberg will be held at 9 o'clock Friday morning from the Holy Cross church with the Rev. P. J. Lochman in charge. Burial will be in the Holy Cross cemetery. The body of the deceased man is at the Clem Hilgenberg residence on Wisconsin-ave.

HEALTH BOARD WARNS AGAINST PNEUMONIA

Madison—(P)—January, February, March and April are pneumonia months in Wisconsin, the state board of health said today in a warning against the disease.

In 1929 there were 2,244 deaths in Wisconsin traced to pneumonia and more than half of them occurred before the close of April, the board said.

Dr. H. M. Guilford, director of the bureau of communicable diseases, placed overexertion and overexposure to cold or wet weather as the general causes of pneumonia. Pneumonia germs may frequent the mouths of healthy persons but unless the individual's resistance is lowered through exposure, fatigue or some illness, there is no danger of the disease, Dr. Guilford said.

"Labor pneumonia, one of the most serious forms of the disease, is more deadly to the male than to the female and the 1929 Wisconsin mortality from this cause indicates the average proportion of deaths according to sex, four male to three female fatalities being the approximate ratio," the board said. "Labor pneumonia is sometimes communicable through the infected mouth secretions."

FORMER CAGE STAR TO BATTLE IN ASSEMBLY

Madison—(P)—If Hugh Harper handles legislative bills like he handled the basketball years ago, there will probably be a fast game in the state assembly next session. Harper, assemblyman-elect from Lancaster, is one of very few university athletes who leave coaching to someone else in favor of farming and state politics.

Owner of the Cornerstone Farm in Grant-co, Harper can look back on three years as guard and center on the University of Wisconsin varsity basketball team and guard on the Portage, Company F. team for six years. He was named all-Western guard in 1907 and 1908 and as a member of the Company F team won the United States championship in 1910 by annexing 68 out of 75 games.

Problems involving highway development, education, taxation and kindred subjects will be Assemblyman Harper's goal in the legislature, he says.

Better by Next Station

"James was on a trip to Canada with me. He caught cold on a train platform. We got some Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup and gave it to him. In about two hours the cough was gone. It was a sign of a cough left. My boy was smiling again—quite recovered."—Mrs. K. V. Badman, 2651 Monroe Street, Toledo, Ohio
